MADRID CAN HEAR REBELS' THUNDER

Leftists Retreat Again On Navacarnero Front

RIGHTISTS FAIL TO RELIEVE BESIEGED OVIEDO GARRISON

With Rightists Before Madrid, Oct. 16.

A war-weary and battle-grimed captain of infantry remarks to-day: "Madrid can hear our guns now."

However, fighting has been heavy, and the slaughter great, the rebels being forced to advance over difficult, corrugated hills on which the leftists have barricaded themselves in barbed-wire protected trenches, bomb-proof redoubts and machine-gun nests.

Meanwhile, it is indicated that the big thrust is coming from Navacarnero.

It is noteworthy that rebel officers expect the early fall of Escorial and also the surrender of Navacarnero, which would leave the capital without outer defences.—United Press.

FURTHER RETREAT

Navacarnero, Oct. 16.

The Leftists on the Navacarnero front retreated further to-day, evacuating Valmojado, after an intense artillery bombardment, at noon.—United Press.

RELIEF HELD UP

Hendaye, Oct. 16.

It is learned here that the Rightist Legionnaires and Moors have not made the expected progress in their attempt to relieve Oviedo.

The Leftists are at present slowly but surely dynamiting their way towards the eastern side of the town, where stand the last Nationalist defences.

It is understood the rebel relief column has been checked on the far side of the city.—United Press.

Sweeping Advance

Seville, Oct. 16.

A broadcast from rebel headquarters here claims a sweeping advance over a 30-mile front from the west of Madrid.

One column is closing on Navacarnero, 25 miles from Madrid, and another belonging to General Mola's army, has taken Robledo, nine miles south-west of Escorial.

On the Toledo front an aeroplane has been brought down and a Yugoslav pilot taken prisoner.—Reuter.

Stalin's Greetings

Moscow, Oct. 16.

The exchange of greetings between M. Joesef Stalin, the Russian chief executive, and Spanish Communist leaders, is interpreted here as open encouragement to the embattled "comrades" of the Spanish civil war and indicates the tightening of the bonds between the Communist Party in Spain and the Third Internationale.—United Press.

Non-Intervention

London, Oct. 16.

Mr. C. R. Attlee, Leader of the Opposition, called on Mr. Eden, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, this afternoon to express the concern of the Labour Party at the slow operation of the agreement regarding non-intervention in Spain and to emphasise the importance of the time factor.

Mr. Eden explained that complaints of breaches of agreement had been referred to the Governments concerned and that he hoped it would be possible to hold a meeting of the International Committee next week to consider the replies of three Governments.—British Wireless.

TELEPHONE GREETINGS

London, Oct. 16.

Greetings were exchanged over the telephone to-day between the Lord Mayor of London and the Mayor of London, Ontario, on the occasion of the presentation at Mansion House to the Lord Mayor, by the General Post Office, of the millionth telephone to be installed in London.—British Wireless.

SUPREME DEFENCE EFFORT

CABALLERO HEADS ARMED FORCES

SOVIET ASKS INTERVENTION

London, Oct. 16.

News from Madrid indicates that the Government is making a supreme effort to oppose the insurgents' advances on the capital.

Senor L. Caballero, the Communist leader, has been appointed supreme head of all the armed forces, and a War Commission has been created for the maintenance of a liaison between the fighting masses and the military command.

Meanwhile, the Soviet press is clamouring for immediate intervention.

It is reported from Oslo that a Norwegian steamer has been chartered to convey arms and munitions to Spain. The Norwegian Foreign Minister has declared that Norway is loyally observing the Spanish Non-Intervention Pact, but that the Government has no legal right to intervene in a case where a Norwegian steamer is carrying arms on behalf of another country.

Dutch revolutionaries have sent an envoy to Barcelona with money to aid the Government troops.—Reuter.

GEHRIG ELECTED

Cleveland, Oct. 16.

Lou Gehrig, of the New York Yankees, one of the greatest first basemen of all time and a lusty hitter, has been selected by the Baseball Writers' Association as the most valuable player of the year, with 73 votes, his rival being Appling with 65 and Averill with 48.—United Press.

PALESTINE PEACE RETURNS

TOMMIES FRIENDLY WITH ARABS

QUIT FIGHTING FOR FOOTBALL

Jerusalem, Oct. 16.

"An armistice," declared by the military authorities at the termination of the Arab strike, expires to-day and it is anticipated that further defensive measures will be abandoned. The British Army's plans have not been divulged, however.

In the meantime Palestine has once more assumed a peaceful aspect, crowds on the highways reviving the traffic problem. Masons' mallets are resounding throughout Jerusalem, as the workmen diligently make up for lost time; while the peasants are picking olives and grapes or attending to their various harvests.

The past is completely submerged and a large army among such peaceful scenes seems completely incongruous. Military lorries are now packed with soldiers going swimming or to play football, instead of to battle in the hills and to lonely highway patrols. The troops' relations with the Arabs are now of the friendliest.

It is learned the General Staff is now considering the possibility of continuing here the S.S. manoeuvres which were interrupted by the emergency call to Palestine.—Reuter.

Political Chaos Envisaged

London, Oct. 16.

As a sequel to the recent East End disorders, Mr. Herbert Morrison has written to Sir John Simon, the Home Secretary, on behalf of the London Labour Party, members of Parliament, the Mayors of London, members of the L.C.C., and members and secretaries of the local Labour parties, demanding that the Government "accept full responsibility of government and take immediate steps to control happenings which, if not controlled, will lead to social disaster and political chaos."—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

GERMAN EXPORTS

Berlin, Oct. 16.

A surplus of £25,000,000 in exports over imports is shown in Germany's foreign trade for the first nine months of the present year, according to official statistics.—Reuter Special.

The new Parliament Building in Tokyo, recently completed, is a good example for modern Japanese architecture. The building which cost 15 million yen will be occupied at the end of this year.

"NEXT YEAR WILL BE TOO LATE"

Britain's Last Hope Of Enforcing Peace

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

London, Oct. 16.

The prophecy that this may be the last year in which it will be in the power of Great Britain to build up real, collective security against aggression and prevent Europe falling under the domination of ruthless might, was made by Mr. Winston Churchill in a speech at Epping to-night.

He declared that at the present moment England and France together were probably at least as strong as Germany in physical force, and aided by all the Governments whose word was pledged to the Covenant of the League of Nations "we might build a rampart against aggression and avert a fatal catastrophe."

"Next year, when the German armies are preponderant, it will be too late," warned Mr. Churchill.—Reuter Special.

FAMOUS NOVELIST PASSES

MADAME ALBANESI'S MISFORTUNES

MANY BOOKS, FEW PROFITS

London, Oct. 16.

The death has occurred of Madame Albanesi, the well-known English novelist.—Reuter.

Martin Albanesi, who wrote many novels under the name and in earlier years as Joan Henricus, was the daughter of Alexander Henderson, a theatre manager well known in the '90's of last century. Her home life was unhappy and, seeking when still a girl a means of keeping herself, she turned to the writing of thrilling stories crammed with incident, ranging from idyllic love scenes to blood-curdling horrors. The pay, however, was poor and, though her output was larger than that of most authors, she made no more than a bare living.

Then she met and married Cecil Raleigh, the author of many melodramas produced at Drury Lane. As the marriage was unhappy, they soon separated and she resumed her writing. At that time international copyright law was very lax and, although over 1,000,000 copies of one of her stories were sold in the United States, she received practically nothing from the profits.

ACTRESS DAUGHTER

Then came her marriage to Carlo Albanesi, pianist and composer, and, while they were never well off financially, many years of happiness followed. They had two daughters, one of whom, Meggie, became a famous actress. She died, however, in 1923 at a time when she was described as "one of the brightest ornaments of the British stage." The blow was a heavy one for her mother, but it was not the only one, for three years later Albanesi died. (Continued on Page 18.)

BOMBAY RIOTING VICTIMS

18 MORE KILLED IN STREET FIGHTING

CURFEW NOW ENFORCED

Bombay, Oct. 16.

Calm prevails in the disturbed areas as a result of the enforcement of the curfew at 10 p.m. to-night.

The streets in the storm-centres are deserted, except for heavily armed police patrols.

In the fighting to-day 18 were killed and 170 injured. Added to yesterday's losses in the Hindu-Muslim fighting, the total casualties are now 31 dead and 310 injured.—Reuter.

DEFYING POLICE

Bombay, Oct. 16.

The communal riots between Hindus and Muslims are developing on an organised scale.

The rioters have adopted a more menacing attitude and are defying the police, who have frequently been compelled to fire. A number of shops were looted this afternoon.

The authorities are closely watching the situation.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

MOCK RAID OVER PARIS

WHOLE CITY KEPT IN DARKNESS

Paris, Oct. 16.

All lights in the city were extinguished or darkened to-night during a mock air raid, of which 70 sirens gave warning.

Motorists stopped their cars for a quarter of an hour, whereafter they were obliged to proceed very slowly and cautiously.

The cafe terraces were closed, but theatre and cinema performances continued.

Volunteers tested the apparatus for supplying fresh air to the underground railway, which will be used as an air raid shelter in time of war. The organisation of a great first aid station was also tested.—Reuter.

ANTI GAS TRAINING

London, Oct. 16.

The Home Office announces that ten specially selected doctors, trained at the Home Office Civilian Anti-Gas School, are now ready to instruct nurses and doctors in anti-gas precautions.

The instructors will be stationed in London and other centres throughout the country. The Government will provide technical equipment and the services of instructors free.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

MUSSOLINI AIMS TO END FRENCH PACT WITH REDS

Italy Feels European Crisis Threatens

GERMANY MIGHT ATTEMPT OVERTURES TO PARIS

Rome, Oct. 16.

A movement designed to remove or diminish the Russian influence in European affairs is apparently forming. Signor Benito Mussolini, in seclusion, is preparing instructions for his Foreign Minister, Count Ciano, to follow when he visits Berlin, probably on or about October 20.

It is understood that Signor Mussolini is convinced that a serious European situation is imminent unless Italy, Germany and Great Britain persuade France to abandon her friendship with Soviet Russia and quietly settle her own differences without outside intervention.

It is hinted that Count Ciano will carry to Herr Adolf Hitler a message suggesting that Germany make friendly overtures to France, which might possibly lead to a Franco-German understanding and a resultant diminution of the European tension.

A noteworthy fact is that the press has characterised the Russian suggestion of a naval blockade of Portugal to end the intervention on behalf of the rebels in Spain, as "a deliberate attempt to sow discord in muddy international waters."

It is widely believed that the Belgian announcement of a neutrality policy has been a severe blow to French political alliances, and a direct consequence of the French attempt to encircle Germany by military alliance and with Russia's help.—United Press.

DU PONT'S SUPPORT LONDON

ENORMOUS SUMS FOR CAMPAIGN

FREELY ADMIT ALLEGATION

Wilmington, Delaware, Oct. 16.

Governor Alfred Landon's campaign for the presidency of the United States, on behalf of the Republican party, is being financed to a considerable extent by members and business associates of the famous Du Pont family, who have already contributed $383,000 to the Republican campaign chest, according to a report made public in New York by Senator Guffey. He is chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee.

The powerful industrialists and bankers, the brothers Lamont and Pierre Du Pont, to-day admitted their reported joint contribution of at least $104,000 to the Republican fund was "substantially correct."

In 1932 the brothers were opposed in politics, Lamont fighting for ex-President Hoover and Pierre for President Roosevelt.

Lamont, commenting on Senator Guffey's report, which covers figures up to August 30, asserted he had made further substantial contributions since then to the Republican fund.

Senator Guffey said his investigations warranted the prediction that the total of the Du Pont contributions would reach £750,000 "by election time."—Reuter.

Girl's Flight Applauded

London, Oct. 16.

The Dominions Secretary, Mr. Malcolm MacDonald, has asked the Governor General of New Zealand to convey a message of personal congratulation to Miss Jean Edden who landed at Auckland at 5.35 a.m. G.M.T. to-day after a solo flight of 1,200 miles across the Tasman Sea, which has never been flown by a woman before.

Miss Edden, who already holds many air records, has also this completed first solo flight from England to New Zealand, which she accomplished in just over 11 days. In the course of it she created new record time of five days 21 hours 10 minutes for the solo flight from England to Port Darwin.—British Wireless.

Intends to Protest

Paris, Oct. 16.

It is reported that France intends to protest against the Belgian neutrality policy, announced by King Leopold the day before yesterday.

However, it is believed the Foreign Office is awaiting the official Belgian note of clarification, which, if unsatisfactory, will result in a French demand concerning the relation of the new policy to Belgian obligations under the League of Nations Covenant. Belgium's attitude towards her Locarno Pact obligations, her attitude towards negotiation of a new Locarno Pact, and her stand regarding the co-operation of the French and Belgian General Staffs on the subject of the German border defence.—United Press.

British Questions

London, Oct. 16.

It is understood that Mr. Anthony Eden, the Foreign Minister, has asked the Belgian Government, through the Belgian Ambassador, for further elucidation of certain points in King Leopold's recent statement of policy.—Reuter Bulletin Service.

BRITISH PEER WEDDED

QUIET CEREMONY IN MARSEILLES

Marseilles, Oct. 16.

Baron Kilbracken, second holder of the title, who is 50 years of age, was married privately at the British Consulate here to-day to Miss Leonora Taylor, a young English hospital nurse, who arrived from Java this morning.

The couple are spending their honeymoon in Italy.—Reuter.

Lord Kilbracken, who has been counsel to the Chairman of Committees of the House of Lords since 1923, was a member of the Central Control Board (Liquor Traffic) from 1921 to 1923. He was formerly Assistant Parliamentary Counsel to the Treasury.

A Physician Feels

YOUR PULSE

OF recent years a good deal of publicity has been given to the condition which goes by the name of High Blood Pressure. Many people are under the impression that this is a new disease responsible for a great deal of general ill-health.

Raised blood-pressure is not "new." It is not even a disease. The blood stream is carried round the body in a system of tubes—the arteries, veins and capillaries. It receives its force from the heart, which is a hollow muscular pump. When the pump contracts, a wave passes down the arteries.

This wave may be felt in any artery when the finger is placed over it. It is called the "pulse." The pulse is usually taken at the wrist because this is the most convenient place, but it exists in all the bigger arteries.

Normal Conditions

As the wave passes along these vessels, the pressure is increased inside. In normal health this pressure, which can be measured with a special instrument, remains within certain fairly wide limits. It is increased by exercise.

Blood pressure is also affected by posture and by excitement, without being in any way other than normal.

As one grows older the blood pressure rises, probably due to the hardening of the elastic walls of the arteries. This hardening makes them smaller, and the heart has to work harder to get the blood stream through.

Certain diseases and certain habits which lead to an earlier aging of the arteries bring about high blood pressure. It will thus be obvious that high blood pressure is not a disease in itself, but merely a symptom of one. In order to lower blood pressure which is too high, the cause must be found and, if possible, removed.

Early cases of raised blood pressure without any other trouble being found to account for it are frequently due to faulty elimination of waste products. This is a question which should be decided by a doctor, because in some cases it is not wise to reduce blood pressure.

Early Symptoms

Where the general health is not seriously impaired and no organic disease exists, a great deal can be done by the patient to remedy the early symptoms which are chronic headache, muddy skin, constipation, broken sleep, rheumatic pains, sometimes giddiness and dizziness of breath. Remember that these symptoms are common to many other disorders, and are not typical of high blood pressure alone.

Raised blood pressure in this case is probably due to a kind of self-poisoning. By attention to the bowels and care in the diet beneficial results can be obtained. The body-building foodstuffs should be reduced. They contain protein and if the waste products resulting from these are left in the tissues, harm will follow.

A Talk about Blood Pressure

Ment may be taken once per day, but patients should avoid pork, veal, liver, sweetbreads and all potted meats. New bread and pastry and all heavy rich foods, together with sweetmeats, pickles, and hot condiments should be left out. Clear soups, light fish, eggs, butter, milk and cheese do no harm. All fresh fruits and vegetables, light puddings and stewed fruit may be taken. Moderate exercise is good for those with high blood pressure, but all excitement and physical strain must be carefully avoided. Stuffy rooms are to be avoided, too, but plenty of fresh air is essential. Be careful not to take life too easily. Too much sitting about does not help to rid the tissues of waste and is likely to aggravate the trouble.

SAFETY-FIRST RHYME

MANY children on their way to school have to cross busy streets. Some of them there is a kind policeman specially stationed at dangerous points to see them across, but many others have to look after themselves.

A reader has sent me a little "safety first" rhyme for the children. They will often find it helpful.

Early cases of raised blood pressure without any other trouble being found to account for it are frequently due to faulty elimination of waste products. This is a question which should be decided by a doctor, because in some cases it is not wise to reduce blood pressure.

for the Children

We don't want to make the children panic and nervous, but we do want to save them from accident. I wonder if mothers realise how much their own attitude affects their children.

Quick and Hasty

If they are in the habit of making quick, hasty movements, a child quickly imitates and his own nervous system becomes out of tune. If in the home and in quiet streets adults and children made it a rule to take deliberate movements, there would be less chance of accidents in the busy traffic. I sometimes feel that the old-fashioned lessons in deportment which taught children to walk sedately might do much to lessen road accidents. It gave them poise and prevented them from losing their heads.

MADE in a MINUTE

THESE cakes are quickly made, for all you have to do is to put the ingredients in a bowl and mix them well together. It is essential for success to put in the ingredients in the order given and not mix them well together. It is essential for success to put in the ingredients in the order given and not mix them until all are added.

Date Cake

Ingredients: 1/3 cup soft butter, 1/3 cup brown sugar, 2 eggs, 1/2 cup milk, 1 1/2 cup flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon each ground cinnamon and grated nutmeg, 1/4 lb. stoned and coarsely chopped dates.

Beat together for 3 minutes and bake in a floured and buttered tin in a medium oven for 35 to 40 minutes.

Chocolate Sandwich

Ingredients: 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons cocoa, 1/4 cup melted butter, 1 egg, 1/2 cup milk, 1 1/2 cups self-raising flour, 1/4 cup boiling water.

Mix well and put into two greased sandwich tins. Bake for 1/4 hour in a moderate oven, when cool spread with vanilla butter and coat with chocolate icing.

The latter is made by melting 2 oz. chocolate with 1 teaspoon butter and 3 tablespoons water, and thickening with enough icing sugar to make right consistency to spread. Beat it well.

Three-Minute Cake

Ingredients: 2 eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup flour, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 3 tablespoons milk, 1/2 teaspoon carbonate of soda, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar.

Add flavouring desired and beat vigorously in the open air for three minutes, then bake in a greased shallow tin for 15 to 20 minutes. When cool coat with icing or spread with sliced jam and sprinkle with desiccated coconut.

A LAY SERMON

By HUGH REDWOOD

UNDERLYING the sayings of Jesus in the latter half of this chapter is the same passionate sorrow for the perversity of God's people which we find in the Sermon on the Mount. Is there need to labour the lesson for the religion of our day, crippled for want of what Jesus offers? The Christmas message for you and me is that we, after all, are the churches. In judging them we judge ourselves. Their hope of new vitality, the world's hope of peace and unity, increases with every human heart in which Christ is born again.

Sparkling Beauty for the Evening

DINING at a restaurant with a party of friends the other night, I overheard a conversation from a table near ours.

"Hullo, darling," said one woman to another, "how nice to see you! Then, with much more than fact, 'You're looking just about as tired as I feel!'"

There lay the sting. You may feel as tired as you like. Indeed, in these days of toil and fret, you can hardly avoid it. What you can and must avoid is showing it.

There are any number of good tips for lifting the looks to gaiety, and I am going to try to tell you some of them.

Eyes are quick to betray you when you are not at your top of the morning best. But if you know how, you can do much to enliven and brighten them.

An eye-bath with a good lotion will relieve them of strain, after which you can insert a few eye-drops to give them back their lost sparkle. Eye-shadow, applied carefully, has the effect of enlarging them and will give them depth, but it must be done with skill.

Start by removing all the powder from the lids and lashes with a spot of skin food or cold cream. Smooth it in right on to the eyebrows, and then "bleb" off the greasiness with a paper tissue.

Now take the faintest smear of shadow on the tip of your finger, and pat in on to the eyelid, close to the lashes.

Smooth it away until it is nothing more than an illusion. If you get it too dark, it will tend to age you.

If your eyes are deep-set, keep the shadow close to the lashes, and do not spread it very high on the lids, as this has the effect of "sinking" the eyes further into the head.

Curled the upper lashes back with an eyelash curler, and then brush them with a navy-blue or dark brown mascara. Both these are softer than black—and preferable to it, unless your coloring is very dark.

Do not touch the under lashes with mascara, as this gives a heavy, artificial look, but take a clean brush, and brush them down with a little clear water.

Latest tip from film stars for enlarging the eyes is to take an eyebrow pencil and draw the faintest possible line along the under rim, keeping it close to the roots of the lashes.

Smooth it away with the tip of your finger. If you do it well, you will find that while it does not (or should not) actually show as a line, it darkens the roots of the lashes and makes them look much thicker.

To darken the eyebrows without making them look hard and unnatural, take your eyebrow pencil and, an eyebrow brush. Rub the pencil over the little bristles, then after combing the brows straight up, brush them very lightly.

When they are done, take a comb, and smooth them back into their natural arch.

If you want to make your eyes appear longer, take the same pencil and draw a short, fine line from the outer edge of the eye, fading it right away.

Fatigue very often produces a slightly hollow look beneath the eyes. This can be concealed by putting a dusting of dry rouge just around this area, and powdering very lightly on top of it.

Although the rouge just here must scarcely show, the slight glow will rob the skin of its yellow look and make the face more youthful.

For the cheeks, cream rouge looks natural. In choosing it, it is important to get a good make-up, which can be relied upon to keep its colour, and not get a fit of the blues after it has been on the skin a short time. The same thing applies to lipstick.

The correct way to put on the rouge is to take a little smudger and pat it in small dabs right across the cheek-bones.

Continue patting until the red is nicely distributed over the skin, then blend it well in, keeping it high, and fading it out towards the ears.

Be sparing with it, since too much rouge when you are feeling tired tends to give the face a hard appearance which is very unbefitting. You can always add a touch of dry rouge if there is not sufficient colour after you have powdered.

The great secret of make-up is that it should look natural. Like a good conjurer, never allow the world at large to see how you do your tricks.

Palestine's Public Enemy Number 1

MAN BEHIND THE TERROR

"REVOLUTIONARY ARMY" PLAN

Jerusalem, Oct. 1.

I AM able to give details of the terrorist organisation which has been responsible for most of the outrages in Palestine since the Arab strike began, says a correspondent.

The "brains" of the organisation is Fauzi Kaoukji, who comes from Northern Syria. His headquarters are in the Nablus hills, where he has 1,000 men under his command.

They live in a network of caves with which the hills are honeycombed and most of them wear khaki uniforms similar to those worn by British troops. These have been smuggled over the frontier from Iraq and Syria.

An elaborate espionage and signalling system has been devised.

Spies, dressed as villagers or hawkers, live in the towns. On donkeys or bicycles they follow the movements of troops and Police. Kaoukji has set up two courts.

CONCESSIONS "BY FORCE"

The first court tries, in the absence of Arab leaders, Government officials, merchants and others who are accused of being traitors.

After sentence is passed his men proceed to carry it out. In this way several Arab police officers have been murdered.

The second court is a disciplinary tribunal for the terrorists.

In an interview Kaoukji said: "Concessions can only be achieved by force. Negotiations have proved useless."

All his men, he said, were trained instructors and within a few weeks the result of their training would become apparent among the units who were opposing the British.

These units, he hoped, would shortly be the kernel of an Arab revolutionary army.

"They laughed when I sat down to the piano," chuckles Victor Meyers, Washington's bandman-lieutenant-governor. But now Victor laughs, for instead of making speeches, he went into scores of homes and played the piano. And he was renominated by the Democrats with an overwhelming vote.

EX-LONDON AIRWAY CHIEF NOW FIGHTS IN FOREIGN LEGION

A MONTH AGO, EDWARD HILLMAN, 23-YEAR-OLD EX-DIRECTOR OF HILLMAN'S AIRWAYS, MOWED THE LAWN AT HIS SEMI-DETACHED VILLA IN TUDOR AVENUE, GIDEA PARK, ESSEX, ADDED UP HIS BUSINESS COMMITMENTS, TURNED WITH A WRY SMILE TO HIS WIFE.

"It's flying for the Spanish Government or nothing," he said.

Yesterday, says a London newspaperman, I found his wife, Irene, paying a visit to her locked and empty house. The grass in the garden had shot up again. There were dead flowers in the lounge.

Mrs. Hillman, bride of a year, had come to see whether the post had brought a letter or telegram from Senor Eduardo Juan Hillman, ace of the Spanish Government air force.

Hoping For News

"Day after day I hurry along from my mother's house, hoping for news of 'Sonnie,'" she said. "I know nothing of what he is doing, or where he is fighting."

"Since he arrived in Spain I have received two letters from him."

They were love letters. They told me nothing of his experiences. He only said I was not to worry about him.

"Sonnie went to fight in Spain because he needed money badly. We have had terrible worries since his father died two years ago."

"My husband accepts responsibility for the education of his four young brothers and sisters. The eldest is only 10, the youngest five years of age."

"When he was offered big money to pilot war planes he felt he must go. I did not try to dissuade him."

"He says he wants to buy his mother an invalid, a car when he comes back. Just think: two years ago, when my father-in-law was alive, she had two £2,000 cars."

"I feel sure, although suspense gets me badly at times, that 'Sonnie' will win out. He deserves a good break after all he has gone through."

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE MARKET UPWARD YESTERDAY

New York, Oct. 16.
S. C. & F. Dow Jones summary of yesterday's market: Prices, to-day advanced, led by steel. The industrial average was the highest since early 1931 on bullish business news,
Italy, utilities, copper, oil, farm implements, mercantiles, mail-orders and motors all advanced, many reaching new high levels. The tickers were barely able to keep pace with the heavy flood of buying orders during the last hour. The Bonds Market and the Curb Exchange were both strong.

S. C. & F. Wall Street Journal comment:—Brokers believe that the technical position of the market has not suffered much, despite the recent heavy volume of business.
Movie shares show strength due to anticipation of higher admission prices.
The Street says that the underlying sentiment of the market continues to be bullish, but traders are now more selective. There was increasing bul-lissness with regard to Remington-Rand, as a result of the ending of the Company's labour troubles. Traders expect that Crosley Radio will declare a dividend to-day.

S. C. & F. New York office cables:
Stock: Leading issues were again in strong demand and traders are bullish for the future outlook.
Cotton: Business was largely confined to trade operations. Hedging of heavy "spot" sales was absorbed by price-fixing on the part of spinners and foreign buyers. The basis of the market is firm. Textiles are active and prices are advancing.
The speculative element is waiting for the time being. Forwardings to mills for the week amount to 343,000 bales.
Nine brokers are bullish and one is bearish for the outlook.

Wheat: Reports that rains are needed in the South-West are now considered doubtful, but the influence on prices has been excellent. Rains are reported from the Argentine wheat belt.

Corn: The cash position is easing on bearish private estimates of the crop in Iowa and Illinois.
Rubber: The market is very quiet.

M Titulescu Sensation ALLEGES HE WAS POISONED

St. Moritz, Oct. 1.

M. NICHOLAS TITU-LESCU, former Rumanian Foreign Minister, underwent a second blood transfusion here tonight.

He has blood poisoning following malaria. Six doctors are at the bedside.

Colonel Nealsor, private secretary of M. Titulescu, said tonight: "The doctors fear that he has been the victim of an attempted assassination by poisoning."

"They are making analyses to try to confirm this."

"They are trying to establish what is the nature of the poisoning, and the date on which it took place."

"They believe that malaria did not alone bring about the illness. He had many enemies in and outside Rumania."

M. Titulescu was ousted from the Rumanian Cabinet at the end of August—while he was ill at Cap
Martin, French Riviera. He went to Switzerland on September 8.

IF YOU ARE UNHAPPY —GO TO SLEEP Yogi Does It In Tube

By A Special Reporter

London, Oct. 1.

A STOCKY, strangely dynamic man, who has converted 150,000 level-headed Americans and thousands of Indians to his faith, received me yesterday in the bedroom of his suite on the eighth floor of a Park Lane hotel. His name is Swami ("master") Yogananda.

He wore a clergyman's dog-collar, a blue lounge suit. His long, greasy hair was drawn over his head, tied in a knot at the back. There was a faint, aromatic smell in the room.

The Swami spoke for nearly 20 minutes without stopping about "Self-Realisation."

Phrases I could only dimly apprehend poured out—"cellular adjustment," "recharging the body-battery," "cosmic energy," "scientific technique of concentration and meditation," "occult vision and metaphysics."

ENERGY SWITCH

"You see," he said, "Self-Realisation is the development of will power by which you can switch off energy from the nervous system. Consequently, you leave the mind free."

"You sink into the ocean of concentration. You are at one with infinity—and joy. You are in the world but not of it, so . . ."

He closed his eyes, seemed to sway a little on his piano stool.

"I was asleep," he said when he opened them again. "I can do that anywhere, in one of your tube trains. When I am unhappy in the world I go to sleep, just like that."

"If I am unhappy asleep I go to the realms of super-consciousness. All—this is done by concentration."

YOU AND INFINITY

"You are a Londoner," he said. "If Londoners would concentrate for two hours a day they, too, could become one with infinity. They would never be ill. They would never grow old. They would live to 100."

"And how long," I asked, "does it take before one can develop enough will power to do these things?"

"Eight years," the Swami answered. "But what I have told you is not only theoretical. It is very practical. But without practice you can do nothing."

Drink A Little Neat Whisky
—SAYS A CENTENARIAN

MRS. MARY PEARCE, of Melbourne, one of the comparatively large number of Australian centenarians, has just celebrated her 104th birthday. She has only once in her life been attended by a doctor, and that was under protest two years ago, when her family thought it time she saw one. The doctor, however, said she needed no medical attention.

"Of course I've had headaches and bilious attacks," she told Austral News "but I have my own remedy. A little neat whisky is the best medicine in the world."

MAGIC IN THE BOTTLE "DOWN OF SOLAR AGE"

On a table by the door of the Chemists' Exhibition, which opened in the New Hall of the Royal Horticultural Society, Greycoat Street, recently stands a bottle half-filled with a heavy, crystal-clear liquid.

This, it seems, is a magic elixir that heralds the dawn of the solar age.

It is "AROCHELOR," shown for the first time in this country, and it is a heat transfer agent used for cooling transformers and as a plasticising resin in varnishes.

But Dr. C. C. Abbott claims—and the fact that he is secretary of the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, lends weight to the claim—that he has found a means to use it for harnessing the energy of the sun.

AN "ELIXIR OF LIFE"

This month, it is stated, he demonstrated his "Sun engine" to the World Power Conference at Washington. By an arrangement of curved mirrors the rays of the sun are directed on to concentric Pyrex glass tubes filled with Arochlor.

The liquid is raised to a temperature of 400 degrees Fahrenheit and is passed through tubes in a boiler, to heat water and produce steam.

The inventor claims that it supplies of coal and oil are exhausted this "solar steam engine" will be able to provide the world with power, and that it is comparable with coal at 12s. a ton.

Among the other exhibits are medicated sweets for children, instead of castor oil and cod liver oil, beauty aids for women and a new "elixir of life" which claims to combat old age.

U.S. HAS BANISHED "RUM ROW"

New York, Oct. 10.

FAMOUS "Rum Row," along the Atlantic seaboard, is no more.

The Treasury Department, which looks after smugglers, reports that no foreign craft has been hovering off the Atlantic coast, except one small vessel, which quickly disappeared.

"To-day," Treasury officials say proudly, "the coast is completely clear of smugglers."

Two factors have contributed to this—friendly foreign Governments have restricted the shipment of alcohol in ships presumably destined for United States waters; and coastguards and other policemen of the sea have been so active that smuggling no longer pays.

The Coastguard air force receives special praise in the Treasury report. Not only have its airmen been highly effective in spotting from the air contraband carriers, both ships and aeroplanes, but they have discovered many illicit stills. In the year ending June 30, 15,727 stills were seized, and of this number 402 were "spotted" by Coastguard pilots.

LESS COUNTERFEITING

The Treasury further reports a great decrease in counterfeit money. This is attributed to the imprisonment of "Count" Viktor Lustig and his platemaker, William Watts.

Lustig is now doing 20 years at Alcatraz, the dreaded Federal prison in San Francisco harbour. Watts, one time a small town druggist in Nebraska, is serving five years in Pennsylvania. Up to the time of Watts' capture 400 persons were arrested passing counterfeit notes made from Watts' plates.

In the year 1934-35 counterfeit notes seized amounted to £300,000. In the year ended June 30 this dropped to £160,000.

THE COW'S KANGAROO

One of the most remarkable animal friendships recorded is reported by Austral News from Grafton, New South Wales.

On the farm of Mr. F. Benson, of Tyndale, a female kangaroo has developed a most pronounced affection for a Jersey cow. It accompanies the cow to the pasture, feeds with her, lies near her at night, and comes to the yard to stand by while she is milked.

The kangaroo is quite friendly with humans, but if the cow is threatened by a hostile dog, it will go to her assistance and even attack the dog to drive it off.

The cow has no affection for, nor takes any interest in, her self-constituted protector. It is quite a one-sided attachment. The kangaroo has been on Mr. Benson's property for about three years.

LADY ASTOR
CHAPERONES
MISS CHURCHILL

New York, Oct. 1.

AUBURN-HAIRED Sarah Churchill, chaperoned by Lady Astor, was chary of making a statement concerning the report that she is "engaged to marry" Mr. Vic Oliver, the American comedian, when she arrived here to-day in the Bremen.

Mr. Oliver, not such a blushing violet, stated: I would be more than flattered to be connected with the Churchill family.

"All this trouble, the result of Transatlantic misunderstanding, will doubtless be settled after the arrival of Randolph, whom I know very well and admire very much. He is the ambassador of the family."

Appearing to be more interested in having his pictures taken than in meeting the Churchills, Mr. Oliver added: "I would not think of marriage unless Miss Churchill's father, brother and the entire Churchill family agreed."

Reporters and photographers followed Lady Astor's niece, Miss Virginia Drann, for more than half an hour thinking she was Miss Churchill. Finally, Lady Astor arranged a Press Conference, at which Miss Churchill read an obviously prepared statement:

"I am very happy to be in America," she said. "After all, I had an American grandmother, and the other members of my family have all been here."

She claimed that all statements supposedly originating from her regarding her possible marriage were false. Then she posed willingly for newsreel men but would not appear before other photographers without the permission of Mr. John C. Broady, a New York lawyer, who, she said, was a friend of the family.

Mr. Oliver, who had been referred to as an "Austrian count," would not give his correct name. Finally, in disgust, he said: "Call me Joe Blotz. Count Joe Blotz."

"DISTRESSED"

Lady Astor said: "Miss Churchill has been with me every minute of the trip. She is much distressed at all the publicity."

As for herself Lady Astor said: "I am glad I have arrived at a time when America is busy with the forthcoming election because I shall be ignored by the newspapers. Miss Churchill too, has diverted attention from me."

Lady Astor spoke strongly against propaganda. "This trip," she said, "was almost ruined for me by the excessive propaganda."

She praised Britain and the United States as two countries where freedom of thought, speech and action still prevailed.

"Communist propaganda will fall in these two countries," she said, "because there is no ignorance and no poverty in comparison with other countries."

Speaking for centralised social legislation, Lady Astor praised the efforts of the United States in that direction.

CREEPING DESERT
SMOTHERS HOMES

RIVER BEDS BLOCKED
BY DRIFT SAND
AN AUSTRALIAN MENACE

Sydney, Oct. 10.

Alarming report that drifting sand on the desert fringes of Australia have completely smothered homes and blocked the beds of rivers are substantiated by Mr. R. N. Ratcliffe, a well-known agricultural expert, in a report to the Council of Scientific and Industrial Research on soil drift and erosion in the arid interior, and particularly in the northern portions of South Australia.

By the desert fringe country is meant, Mr. Ratcliffe says, that great area stretching east and north-east of Lake Eyre to the borders of New South Wales and Queensland.

"The present condition of the country is pitiable," reports Mr. Ratcliffe.

The Cooper and its branch, the Strzelecki, have not flowed since 1918. The courses of both rivers have been so altered by deep sand drifts that it seems possible that their floods will never be able to reach the lakes again.

"The shrubs have virtually disappeared from the sandhills, and the congress has been reduced to a mere remnant. Such bush as there was has all gone from the flats, which are regularly swept by drift sand. After a rain, instead of a more permanent type of feed, they now tend to grow ephemeral plants typical of pure sandy country."

FODDER RESERVES GONE

Mr. Ratcliffe states that the sandhills of the desert fringe had acquired a somewhat precarious stability which had permitted such plants as the saltbush and bluebushes to establish themselves in suitable places. Within the last few decades that stability had been destroyed, and with it the fodder reserves provided by the grass and the bush.

Even if the land was free of rabbits—an impossible undertaking—the period necessary for it to recover its lost stability would have little meaning in human reckoning. The sandy desert country had never supported more than a handful of human beings, and a negligible fraction of Australia's herds.

"The voices raised in lament of the neglect of these areas have been largely those of men who have a sentimental attachment to the 'great outback,'" said Mr. Ratcliffe, in conclusion, "or who have an utterly false idea of its real potentiality and value. No one denies that when conditions are favourable these great spaces of the Australian interior will grow magnificent stock feed. But that does not mean that they can support permanent pastoral settlement, even that they will really repay permanent exploitation."

The urgent problem, he concludes, is to prevent the better rainfall areas from suffering a like fate.

Vatican
Urges
Anti-Red Drive

Castel Gandolfo, Italy, Oct. 1.

Pope Pius blessed to-day a militant defence against communism, which he declared is undermining "the very foundations of all order, all culture and all civilization."

He said that the crisis in Spain is a "school in which the most serious lesson is being taught to Europe and to the whole world—to a world now at last wholly steeped, ensnared and threatened by subversive propaganda, and more especially to a Europe battered and shaken to its very foundation."

SUBVERSIVE FORCES

The Pope said that the Roman Catholic religion is the "one real obstacle in the way of those forces which have already given a savage and measure of themselves in subversive attacks of every kind and order from Russia to China, from Mexico to South America."

The Pope wondered if, in fact, it is not already too late, declaring the subversive forces of which he spoke, "once they have seceded and started up the masses aim at nothing less than arming them and throwing them mainly against every form of institution, human and divine."

The Pontiff expressed his deep-felt horror at the "atrocious war" in Spain. He declared: "It has been well said that the blood of a single man, shed by the hand of his brother, is more than enough for all time and for the whole earth; what is to be said when we are faced with the blood of brothers killing brothers, which are daily being told?"

PRESS CAMPAIGN

The Pope expressed his deep admiration for the Spanish refugees and for their comrades suffering with revolution.

He said that the Roman Catholic church is the bulwark against communism, exclaiming:

"The Roman Catholic press has been persistently suspected and increasingly hampered, while every freedom and favour, or at least complete toleration, has been shown to the press of those whose mission and purpose, it would seem, is to spread confusion among nations and to mislead by falsifying facts . . . a press which does not hesitate to proclaim a new Christianity and a religion of new coinage."

It was believed the Pontiff thus referred to National Socialist Germany.

MASEFIELD'S
HARVARD

Cambridge (Mass.), Oct. 10.

MR. JOHN MASEFIELD, the poet laureate, was loudly applauded when he read the Ode which he had specially composed for the Harvard Tercentenary celebrations here.

Recounting the exodus of the Puritans from England, the Ode says: "There was a preacher in that little band, John Harvard, son of one from Stratford town, who may have shaken William Shakespeare's hand—"

"Himself has little to renown." Applauding Harvard, the Ode goes on:

"Would that his human eyes, untimely dead, Freed from that quiet where the generous are, Might see this scene of living corn he made—"

This lamp of human hope become a star."

The speech of Mr. Baldwin, who, as Chancellor of Cambridge University, broadcast greetings from Birkbeck Hall, Aylsham, Norfolk, was heard clearly.

Congratulations from Oxford University were offered by Mr. Alexander Lindsay, Master of Balliol College, Oxford, who is attending the celebrations.—Reuter.

Guards Against White Ants, Dry Rot, Etc.

These pictures illustrate actual tests made at Lahore and Beas, Punjab. Pieces of wood treated with "SILVERTOWN" were nailed to untreated pieces and buried for several months in ground infested with white ants. As will be seen on the left, the TREATED pieces remained UNTOUCHED, whereas the untreated pieces were almost completely devoured. To ensure a thorough test, all pieces were cut from the same plank.

FULCRUM

THE MODERN RACKET FOR THE FASTER GAME.

"PLI-SHAFT"
MODELS

During the past season we have been carrying out extensive tests with frames constructed on a still more advanced principle, which is only made possible by the "FULCRUM" process of building frames in block form. Briefly, this new frame has no handle slips at all. Every joint is parallel to the line of play, with the result that exceptional resiliency and extra drive are obtained from the shaft. Under the normal construction the shaft is, of course, locked by the handle slips and the shock of impact is largely taken by the shoulders of the frames and, of course, the gut. In our "Pli-shaft" construction however, the shock is absorbed by the whole of the shaft as well, with the result that not only are the shoulders (always the weakest part of the racket) relieved of some of the strain, but additional resiliency is obtained as well. Experience is rapidly leading us to conclude that the design of a racket along these lines represents one of the greatest advances which has ever taken place in the evolution of the tennis racket.

BRITAIN STANDS FOR FREEDOM

Sober-minded Britons overseas, no less than those at Home, will applaud the admirable speech delivered by Mr. Anthony Eden in Sheffield on Wednesday, in which the British attitude towards political extremism was tersely and effectively expressed. It is, as the Foreign Secretary stated, characteristic of the British people that they have a rooted dislike of extreme political doctrines. Even so, they do not quarrel with others who prefer different forms of government—that, as Mr. Eden observed, is their own affair. In these days of stress and tension, however, it is essential that British ideals should be preserved, and it is a matter for pride to know and to realise that, in Britain, freedom of person and of thought is still respected. Such freedom does not in any sense imply that Britons are insensible to their duties and obligations to the State. Mr. Eden dealt with that point in apt manner when he asserted that the British people are just as ready to serve the State, when the State exists for the people, as when people exist for the State, as they do in some European countries to-day. The political concept based on the latter idea is one which is totally foreign to British thought and is in complete conflict with our traditions as a nation. There are those who, in face of these considerations, are attracted to the idea of British isolation from European entanglements. Absolute aloofness, however, is an impossibility. On the other hand, Britain should enter into no commitments based on policies which would antagonise any nation. If, as a nation, we can work in within a general system of collective security, so much the better, but unless that system is universal in character, wisdom would appear to lie in as few entanglements as possible. Incidentally, the new Belgian policy, just announced, may have vital effects on Britain's understandings with Continental nations. For our own safety, it is best we should, as far as possible, rest on the concept of a nation strong of arm and of purpose, with no desire to intermeddle in the affairs of others. Wise statesmanship will see that we steer clear of political experiments of dubious value, with a determination to preserve those free institutions which Mr. Eden so well described as being expressive of British life and character. Regimentation of political thought, with a surrender of freedom, can never find a place in the British system.

When Hongkong Wouldn't Let The "Flying Angel" Fly.

DR. CLYDE FENTON
Nothing stops him.

FOUR months ago, a young Australian aviator slipped in and out of Kai Tak Airport in a small Moth machine. It was fortnight before newspapers found he was Dr. Clyde Fenton, brilliant pilot and skilful doctor, who had taken off from Port Darwin without a permit in order to fly to his sick mother in Swatow.

Down in Australia Fenton is known as "The Reckless Angel." The "Magic Carpet," in which he flew to Hongkong, is at service, day and night, of scattered population of half a million square miles of bush. Back-blockers of North Australia swear by the young pilot.

Now, Australia's air authorities have suspended the "Reckless Angel's" flying permit because he flew 500 miles over Timor Sea, thence 1,500 miles to Hongkong and Swatow, in plane which had no certificate of airworthiness.

There is hitherto unrelated story behind this suspension. Fenton flew in and out of Hongkong on way to Swatow too rapidly for any action to be taken. But on return flight to Australia, plane was seized by Hongkong authorities, Fenton was forbidden to fly until certificate was forthcoming. Gaining access to plane, Fenton had it wheeled out of hangar by Chinese airport workers, was off in a flash before officials could stop him.

Despite Australian suspension of licence, Fenton still continues to fly to Swatow from the bush—and Government has been forced to allow it.

Fenton, once of Bart's in London, is as skilful as he is brave. He takes off and lands, day or night, on inconceivably bad landing grounds.

Once, with badly injured minor under anaesthetic strapped in plane, he took off from space little larger than tennis court. Miners hauled his plane back until the tail was in the jungle. While they held plane back, he revved engine at full speed. Suddenly released, the plane shot upwards to safety.

His exploits, carrying serum and rushing to SOS calls from the North Australia backblocks, are epic. Once he gets a call nothing stops him—not even a Government ban on flying.

Was King's Term-mate

WHEN "hush-hush" cruiser Cumberland arrives Monday she brings as commander man who could, if he wished, tell many tales of boyish pranks of King Edward VIII. More sedate than in days (1907-11) when he was term-mate at Osborne and Dartmouth of Prince of Wales, Captain John Catterall Leach is, for first time in 30 years spent in Navy, coming to China Station, with departure of H.M.S. Kent, be Flag-Captain to Commander-in-Chief Vice-Admiral Sir Charles Little.

During World War, Captain Leach served in battleship Erin in Grand Fleet, was selected to specialise in gunnery in 1918. He was gunnery Lt. Commander in H.M.S. Repulse when Duke and Duchess of York made their famous Australian, New Zealand tour in that ship in 1927. At conclusion of tour, Captain Leach was awarded M.V.O.

Cumberland's appointment is Captain Leach's first opportunity to see the sea since return from Antipodean tour, for almost immediately afterwards he was appointed Deputy Director of Training and Staff Duties at Greenwich.

These Names Make News.

Volunteers & The King

HONGKONG volunteers may wonder why the King should be Colonel-in-Chief of the Ceylon Defence Force while the Volunteers in this colony—they are quite as important in the scheme of Empire defence—should be without such an honour.

It is really a matter of Army tradition, I believe. Certain regiments have a Colonel-in-Chief who is usually a member of the royal family, as well as an honorary colonel and the lieutenant colonel on the active list.

The Hongkong volunteer forces happen to be outside that tradition—perhaps because Hongkong is a young country.

Only select band of regiments have a Colonel-in-Chief. It might mean flippant recruiting if H.M. would consent to become Colonel-in-Chief of H.K.V.D.C.

"Pop"

FROM Imperial Theatre in St. Petersburg to Gloucester Ballroom in Hongkong in five days, it has taken "Pop" Gellman exactly twenty years—all but last five spent in wandering exile—to find haven anywhere comparable to one he was driven from by Bolshevik uprising in 1917. Now, as leader of Gloucester Hotel Orchestra, "Pop" is happy. Like thousands of compatriots, "Pop" fled from Russia into Siberia, and across those terrible wastes eventually to Harbin, when the Red regime struck terror into the Royalists.

He wandered into the "Telegraph" office the other day with an eulogy, composed by his "boy," on the Gloucester Management.

Saga of a Shirt

NEWSISTER Dorothy "Dot" Kilgallen has covered many a big story, but considers present flight around world her "biggest assignment," and flight from Hongkong to Hongkong its most exciting part. Unrehearsed incident occurred in Hanoi, where she was almost arrested by Inspector General of Secret Police for landing without permit, was taken by him, instead, on shopping expedition, during which she bought baggy pair of trousers and shirt. Most exasperating part of flight since then has been trying to keep shirt tail inside pants.

Neat phrase coined by demure New York Evening News girl-reporter: "You've got to travel by air to see all the rice in China." Outside air race round world, Dot's biggest job was covering Hauptmann trial where, she told me, mob passions held sway but guilty man was nevertheless brought to justice.

"Right through the trial there was not one doubt in my mind but that Hauptmann kidnapped the Lindbergh baby," she said. "I sat through three feet of him right throughout the trial, and could have poked him with my pencil. I watched every change of expression on his thin, aquiline face. If ever a man showed guilt, it was Hauptmann."

Bicycle Notoriety

MR. I. S. K. Soboleff, Russian refugee, who has written book about a trip round world on Theatre since it was opened, is at least sixty years old. It gives purer tone than most pre-war in and most of East on a $5 bicycle. He had to ship, however, from Hongkong to Bangkok, whence he pushed through jungle to borders of Malaya, only to be turned back as he had no visa.

Eventually the British Consul relented, and he reached Penang. He cycled 500 miles in four days, feat which brought him notoriety sufficiently lucrative to enable him to buy a motor-cycle and side-car.

From this fresh start his publicity value increased and business men became generous.

Unearthed Scandal

ALTHOUGH "Bud" Ekins looks like winner of round the world air marathon between three newshawks, man who will set the most praiseworthy record is actually North American Newspaper Alliance's star reporter Leo Kiernan. He is only one of three who has travelled entire circuit on normal commercial routes, set out with express determination not to waver from scheme, conceived last spring, of encircling globe by commercial plane on existing routes. Both rivals chartered special planes in effort to get home first.

Kiernan took only two of the ten years he's been in newspaper game to reach top of tree, is now N.A.A.'s big-shot reporter. He specialises in aviation, and is crack pilot himself. Most of the N.A.A. stories on big Atlantic flights have been from his typewriter, which he usually carries around with him, discarded on present flight for fountain pen in order to travel "light." Fountain pen exploded between Penang and Hongkong, ruined his only suit.

Kiernan took up flying when a kid, was in the Aviation Section of U.S. Signal Corps during the Great War. Aviation gave way to chemistry for few years after the war, chemistry was in turn discarded for newspapers. Now, he feels, he's found his right vocation. Big stories: Lindbergh baby murder; first passenger to fly in Pan-American planes around South America; exposure of U.S. Air Mail scandal which led to Government cancellation of all air mail contracts.

Black and White

THERE'S neat little story behind two grand pianos—one finished in black, other in white—which receive about five hours thumping each day by Bob and Bertie Hellman, Roof Garden entertainers at the Hongkong Hotel.

Both instruments were built in Hongkong, especially for Hellman duo, by Mr. J. R. Canning, of Moutrie's. When Hotel Management hastily sought suitable instrument for their popular entertainers, Mr. Canning, trained at North Polytechnic Institute, Music Trade School, offered to supply deficiency.

Management balked at suggestion of all-white Grand. Canning took all responsibility, worked day and night for four days with four workmen, put wires in 24 hours before Bob and Bertie made debut.

Result is credit to Hongkong workmanship, compares favourably with anything seen elsewhere. Incidentally, white grand is built on frame of piano that has been back-stage at Queen's Theatre since it was opened, is at least sixty years old. It gives purer tone than most pre-war instruments.

JEAN BATTEN.

Tricky cross-winds could not trick her.

Batten, Still Batting

NEW ZEALAND. Australian newspapers will splash posters in leading cities with two words: "She's There." And whole of the Antipodes will know that long-legged, try-again Jean Batten has ended another exploit that goes down as page in aviation history. Nothing can stop this girl, who carries old black mascot that has been with her in every flight, wears New Zealand four-starred flag as muffler. Treacherous Tasman Sea, which culminated marvellous England-Australia record flight this week, takes steamers four days to cross, is graveyard of many an intrepid Australian aviator. They depart from Sydney, fly into the blue, vanish. Reason: tricky cross-winds in a million square miles of sea where winds above sea-level have never been charted. Airmen head for New Zealand's thousand-mile coastline across thousand mile sea, finish near Antartelle.

Batten is only woman to have made crossing on trail successfully laid by Kingsford Smith. It was "Smithy," who lost life in Bay of Bengal last year, who taught freckle-faced, seventeen-year-old Jean how to fly, gave her her first enthusiasm for aviation. She then went home to England, unashamedly sold dentist-father's piano to surreptitiously complete lessons.

Then, miraculously, she found backing for two unsuccessful, third-time lucky, flights, beat Amy Molison's long-standing England-Australia record by four days.

Since then Jean Batten has set all-time record for solo flight across South Atlantic, beating Morrison's Lympne-Port Natal record by 21 hours; gained woman's record for Australia-England flight; beat own record this week for England-Australia flight, and set trans-Tasman woman's record that is likely to stand for many years. Awards include Grand Prize of Honour of Federation Aeronautique Internationale (Mrs. Molison is only other British holder), presentation by Royal Empire Society.

Unmarried, long-legged, slim, 25-year-old, fair-haired, she is sentimental, this Jean Batten. There is no hard-headed nonsense about her. She has been in love—with one E. F. Walter, but fell out again. Jean Batten is just a girl.

But a very admirable one.

He Knows 80 Dialects

THERE are 87 dialects in the Philippine Islands. Only one foreigner is said to have mastered most of them.

He is the Rt. Rev. Joseph Billiet, Prefect Apostolic of the picturesque Mountain Province of Baguio, who went to the Philippines in 1921, year he was ordained. He was appointed Prefect Apostolic in November, 1935.

Monsignor Billiet will be outstanding figure among prelates at International Eucharistic Congress in Manila next February.

On arriving in the islands, he was appointed parish priest of Faco, Manila, where he worked for several years.

His next assignment was to Pasig, Rizal. In 20 years in Philippines he served in every part of the islands, mastering, as he went from village to village, the many native dialects.

ENTERTAINMENT Bring The Services To The Microphone.

By "FIRST NIGHT"

LETTER from reader suggests ZBW should make supreme effort coming winter to capture naval talent.

I suggest that ZBW should make supreme effort to bring all Services to the microphone.

You have only got to go to some of these Service "do's" to find out how excellent they are in entertaining line.

Why not offer prizes, presentable at big bumper programme at end of season, for best programme given during season, allow each unit its own night.

Thus, Destroyer Flotilla could provide programme one night, Ulster Rifles another, Medway and Submarines a third, and so on. Services would jump at opportunity.

GREAT news for listeners. Bryan Lewis (Rev. J. N. Lewis Bryan) reports from Mid-dlesex, in letter to "First Night" that he arrives in Hongkong on November 2, en route to Tientsin, where he will henceforth be stationed as Chaplain.

ZBW, informed of pending arrival, has already cleared all lines for half-an-hour's broadcast by the formidable Padre, whose departure for Home a year ago left serious gap in ranks of milk-artists.

"It will be good to be back in the studio again, and have the chance of pulling your legs," Padre writes.

Test Relays

ZBW will make special efforts this winter to relay commentaries on Test matches which will be played in Australia. Whether relays will be possible depends on whether Aussie stations VKME, VK2ME, VK3LR broadcast cricket. As it seems almost definite that at least one of them will be used for this purpose, programmes should be available for local consumption.

Cricket Relay To-night

FIRST Australia-England cricket broadcast will be relayed by VK3LR to-night, when, if conditions are o.k., you should hear 20-minutes commentary on England v West Australia match, which is first of series, started in Perth yesterday.

Original programme will be over Australian A.B.C. network, and will be relayed by VK3LR (31 metres), commencing 12.20 a.m. to-night (H.K.T.)

"Night Must Fall"

A.D.C.'s "Night Must Fall" rehearsals reportedly progressing favourably after lots of post-show regarding cast, during which it is stated, almost entire original choice was changed. "Night Must Fall" is one of trickiest things A.D.C. has attempted in many years, in any but expert hands of E. G. Smith-Wright could easily flop. Script calls for Judge's summing up, conviction of murderer at commencement of play, flash back in subsequent Acts to events leading up to and actual commission of crime.

Chance For Understudies

PHILHARMONIC are well into harness with return from north of Rev. Cyril Brown, and rehearsals are pepping up.

This Page would like to suggest that, in view of excellent line-up of understudies for Principals in "Maid of the Mountains", Phil-harmonic endeavour to arrange that at least one of forthcoming nights be set aside for Under-studies, who would take over from principals. It would give something worth striving for to Under-studies, whose opportunities are not particularly heartening.

"Swing Time"

LATEST Rogers-Astaire film "Swing Time" is definitely scheduled for Hongkong release next month. Ginger, incidentally, has just returned to Hollywood after one of those exciting vacations that only members of the enchanted cinema circle can pull out of the bag, and she's already making preparations for her next picture, the homespun classic, "Mother Carey's Chickens".

Ginger had just finished slaying over dance routines that float so easily and gracefully across the screen in "Swing Time", her new co-starring picture with Fred Astaire. Everyone felt that she needed a rest. But rest and cinema greatness don't go together. Before she knew it Ginger was guest of the Texas Centennial Celebration, and in one crowded week-end she was crowning the Texas beauty queen, bestowing commissions in the Texas Navy (she's an honorary Admiral, you know) and being the cynosure of thousands of dotting eyes. Then she and her mother went on to New York where they were feted all over Long Island and Manhattan. A rousing reception at the Harvest Moon Ball at Madison Square Garden capped a week of triumphs.

Finally, she took the winners of the annual dance event to the opening of "Swing Time" at the Radio City Music Hall, which we hear is doing the kind of fabulously successful business that only an Astaire-Rogers picture can do. Then she departed for home and Radio Studios where she will solo in "Mother Carey's Chickens".

Why, Y.M.C.A.?

LAST year it was Philharmonic. This year it seems to be Young Men's Christian Society A.D.C. who, emu fashion, want to hide heads. Paragraph already set in type regarding forthcoming "Jack and the Beanstalk" was killed from Saturday's Entertainment Page at urgent behest of A.D.C.'s Secretary, offer of publicity in today's Page was also similarly rejected.

Broadwayians Coming

HONGKONG Hotel Management announce hot cabaret items for gala evening scheduled for Saturday, November 7. Reputedly to be highest paid and most talented artistes ever to visit East, Broadwayian dancers Eula Hoff and Bob Barnett have been booked for extended H.K. season, will with aid of Bob and Bertie Hellman (already so popular with socialites they don't need further introduction by this Page) assuredly fill Roof Garden to capacity on November 7.

Gloucester Cleanings

QUEENIE and Kall's Hawaiians still drawing big crowds to Gloucester Ballroom Wednesday, Saturday nights. Hence smile-wreathed face of Manager Chessex, who booked these old-time favourites on a hunch, has reason to be well-pleased with bargain. Much of the attraction at Gloucester is "Pop" and his Cossacks. "Pop" whispered to me the other day that Manager Chessex is preparing plans for Christmas on a scale that is going to make this the season you'll tell grand-kids about when you're retired on the Old Country chickenery.

Dear Kiddies,
Most of you got last week's Competition correct; you soon sorted out the different parts of the various animals.

Taking age and neatness into account, the best Senior entry was that of Owen Hong Sling (aged 10), 9 Garden Terrace, Hongkong.

In the Junior Section, the prize goes to Mollie Terry (aged 8½), 4 Hart Avenue, Kowloon.

Specially commended for good work are the following:—Mimi da Rosa, Margie Xavier, Patsy Kote-wall, Theresa Mattos, Celeste Marques, Vera P. Dinbar, Aida Mendes, Margaret Chou, S. E. Bux, Andrew Chou, Joan Gulgum, Leslie Fox, Maizie Law and Zuleima Ribeiro among the Seniors; and Jeremy Bray, Angela King, Frankie Vaz, Aida Castro, Colleen Cheung, Kenneth Prince, Irene Osmond, and Teddy Shuster among the Juniors.

Now, children, here's something new for you this week. Beneath the picture you will see a letter which Jimmy has written to chum, inviting him to a party. Some of the words are missing, however. Can you tell what they are?

Study the picture carefully, for the clues to the missing words are in it. The numbered spaces in the letter indicate the gaps to be filled. When you have decided on the words, to complete the letter make a numbered list of them on a sheet of paper, headed with your name, age and address. Do not copy out the entire letter. Don't forget to give your age.

There will again be two prizes—one for children from 10 to 14; and the other for those under 10. The prizes will be awarded for entries containing lists of the most suitable words to fill the gaps in the letter. In the event of ties, neatness and age will be taken into consideration. Address your entries to Uncle Eddie, c/o "Hongkong Telegraph," so as to reach him not later than 4 p.m. on Wednesday.

Peter Tschinko. You made a good effort, but had not quite the right idea. You wrote, instead of a cow's, better luck next time.

Annie Lim. Glad you have decided to enter the competition. You had two mistakes. It was a bear's head, not a cat's, and the hind legs were those of a cow, not a giraffe. (Crested Marguerite). You had all the answers right this time, and your work was much better. But there were some others rather better. Still, you nearly won the prize. Try again!

UNCLE EDDIE.

The most valuable service a mother can render her baby is to ensure that he will be fed from the breast. Upon this you will depend his future health and happiness. Maternal milk is the one perfect food for baby. It is naturally constituted to suit his delicate digestion and to provide every nutritive element required to ensure healthy growth and development.

Doctors and Nurses know the remarkable value of "Ovaltine" to expectant and nursing mothers. Taken regularly before and after baby comes, "Ovaltine" not only promotes a rich and ample supply of breast-milk but it maintains the mother's strength and vitality.

GOOFY GOLF

CONDUCTED BY
ED. KELLY

When His Wife Mashed the Potatoes With a Driver Instead of a Mashie

I HAVE a new nibbler which I want to try out. There is also a gold-plated stymie which I have used only once. It was presented to me after I had won the Interstate Snooker Championship at the Y.M.C.A.

My position was scrum-half and I scored a field goal in the top-left pocket just before the final gong went. The crowd chafed me off the ground. An unenviable experience. I was hit by eight chairs at once and had to be escorted by the police.

I have been reading that there have been complaints from English professionals about the enormous length of the newly-lengthened Hoylake course. This seems childish to me.

I have played on courses where we had to have native bearers to carry out portable wireless transmitting equipment and provisions.

On one occasion I was three days in a bunker without food or drink. When the rescue party from the club-house reached me I was still belting away madly at the ball with a shovel.

On that particular day I was hooking my slices badly, and it took me two strokes to do an easy half-mile putt. I was disgusted with myself and retired from the game.

Concrete Lawns

I AM planning a golf course which will be all down hill. Concrete channels will run from one hole to another, with movable bunkers here and there. Steel balls, of course, and magnetic holes.

It may be too expensive to have a club-house with a bar at each hole, but this can be done gradually, as the membership of the club increases.

It is a common saying that good golfers are born, not made. It has not yet been my luck to meet an unborn golfer, so I cannot substantiate the statement.

Myself, I am a made golfer. I mean to say, I'm made to stay at home when I want to play golf.

Wives can be very trying at times. Only the other day I found my wife mashing the potatoes with my driver.

"Put that driver down!" I exclaimed. "The ideal! Use your mashie."

The driver was a bit annoyed about it, too. He wanted to know how the devil he was going to pick up a fare when his uniform was covered with mashed potato.

While I think of it, I want to make it clear to non-golfers that the actual game really means very little. It's the discussion after the game that counts.

Make Them Listen

WHAT greater thrill is there in life than after having successfully stalked your quarry, to get him cornered and then start telling him how you sliced into the rough and then hit a screamer, dead, on the pin?

Hole by hole you go over the game for hours and hours until some selfish hound barks in and says, "You're right! The ninth is a tricky hole. Now, last Saturday..."

That's another innovation I'm going to have in my model golf club. Professional listeners. An absolute necessity. They could be hired out by the hour, and as one went mad his place could be taken by a fresh one.

I suppose an ordinary enthusiastic player would not use up more than about ten listeners during the course of the day. On wet days he may need more, of course.

Golf equipment, too, is highly important. My golf bag holds exactly eight bottles of beer, with a pocket at the side for glasses and opener. The clubs are sent on by post. A sweater colourful enough to frighten crows and towns is essential.

About Etiquette

I HAVE not sufficient space to tell you about golf etiquette. Suffice it to say that etiquette is practically half the game, and if you haven't got one and contemplate joining a club you would be wise to go out and get measured for one straight away. I have had mine for years and find it invaluable.

It should be kept in a cool place—but, anyhow, you'll find out all about it in time.

What do you do when you've been given the money to pay the gas bill and you find that you've only got two bob of it left?

Sorry to intrude this irrelevant note into the proceedings, but it's a matter of pressing importance at the moment.

I have not sought expert advice, but I have an idea that if I spent the remaining two shillings I couldn't be much worse off.

Yes, I think I'll do that.

THESE WORDS DID GOOD—I "Prisoner At The Bar..."

MEN have spoken—and the world has become better for their words.

Before 1857 the Divorce Law in England was even crueller than it is to-day. Divorce could be obtained only by Act of Parliament.

And then Mr. Justice Maule, in a bitter, sarcastic address to a poor prisoner who had committed bigamy, showed how wrong the law was, and started a movement which led to reform. This is what he said:—

PRISONER at the Bar, you have been convicted before me of what the law regards as a very grave and serious offence; that of going through the marriage ceremony a second time while your wife was still alive.

You plead in mitigation of your conduct that she was given to dissipation and drunkenness, that she proved herself a curse to your household while she remained mistress of it, and that she had latterly deserted you; but I am not permitted to recognise any such plea. You had entered into a solemn engagement to take her for better, for worse, and if you got infinitely more of the latter, as you appear to have done, it was your duty patiently to submit.

You say you took another person to be your wife because you were left with several young children who required the care and protection of someone who might act as a substitute for the parent who had deserted them; but the law makes no allowances for bigamists with large families.

Had you taken the other female to live with you as your concubine, you would never have been interfered with by the law. But your crime consists in having—in use your own language—preferred to make an honest woman of her.

Another of your irrational excuses is that your wife had committed adultery, and so you thought you were relieved from treating her with any further consideration; but you were mistaken. The law, in its wisdom, points out a means by which you might rid yourself from further association with a woman who had dishonoured you, but you did not think proper to adopt it.

I will tell you what that process is. You ought first to have brought an action against your wife's seducer, if you could discover him.

That might cost you money, and you say you are a poor working man, but that is not the fault of the law. You would then have been obliged to prove by evidence your wife's criminality in a Court of Justice, and thus obtain a verdict of damages against the defendant, who was not unlikely to turn out to be a pauper.

But so jealous is the law, (which you ought to be aware is the perfection of reason) of the sanctity of the marriage tie, that in accomplishing all this you would only have fulfilled the lighter portion of your duty. You must then have gone, with your verdict in your hand, and petitioned the House of Lords for a divorce.

It would cost you, perhaps, five or six hundred pounds, and you do not seem to be worth as many pence. But it is the boast of the law that it is impartial, and makes no difference between the rich and the poor. The wealthiest man in the kingdom would have to pay no less than that sum for the same luxury; so that you would have no reason to complain.

You would, of course, have to prove your case over again and at the end of a year or possibly two, you might obtain a decree which would enable you legally to do what you have thought proper to do without it. You have thus wilfully rejected the boon the legislature offered you, and it is my duty to pass upon you such sentence as I think your offence deserves, and that sentence is, that you are imprisoned for one day; and, inasmuch as the present Assize is three days old, the result is that you will be immediately discharged.

Japanese Combine To Control Pacific Fisheries

Big Merger Will Handle Seventy Per Cent. of Local Business

H. K. INCLUDED IN VAST SPHERE OF OPERATIONS

By A Special Correspondent

OVER 70 per cent., or approximately $1,000,000 worth of the fish Hongkong residents eat in a year, is imported into the Colony by Japanese interests.

This remarkable fact which could hardly have been guessed by many, demonstrating as it does the complete ascendancy of a single firm and an almost complete control exerted by it of the Hongkong and South China fish supplies, is disclosed for the first time by the phenomenal success attained by the Fung Nai Company since its establishment in this Colony a number of years ago.

After a successful career extending over a period of ten years, the Fung Nai has now been incorporated with five other leading Japanese fishery concerns into a giant merger, capitalised at 40,000,000 yen.

This is soon to be increased to a hundred million yen, as plans are being completed to bring the whole of South China and Hongkong into a vast sphere of operations, to range from fish-catching to whale-hunting, and to extend from the Behring Straits to the Antarctic Ocean.

The new Company is styled the "Kyodo Gyogyo Kaisha" (Incorporated Fisheries, Limited), and the Hongkong offices, which hitherto have served as the local headquarters of the Fung Nai, has now been reorganised into an important branch office of the Kyodo Gyogyo, having charge of the fishery operations conducted from Hongkong, and of the South China and Hongkong import business.

The Fung Nai Company was first conceived under interesting circumstances. When the big strike and boycott of 1925 dislocated the business of this Colony, enterprising Japanese businessmen saw in it a unique opportunity for getting into the fish business. With a capital of $400,000 and a few motor trawlers as the nucleus for what has since grown into a big fleet, they unobtrusively got into line, and by the introduction of modern deep-sea trawling methods, which give them a distinct advantage over the primitive means employed by the native fishing fleets from Aberdeen and Shaukiwan, rapidly forged into the forefront.

How far they have succeeded may be gauged by the fact that they are importing over a million dollars' worth of fresh fish into Hongkong every year. This represents, as stated, 70 per cent. of the fish which comes to the table either fresh or salted down.

Under contracts with the leading fishmongers in Hongkong, the Japanese Company sell the latter all the fresh fish they bring here. A certain amount is converted here into its salted form by the dealers of Salt Fish Lane (Hongkong's Billingsgate) before being re-exported into South China.

II MOTOR TRAWLERS

The Company has a fleet of 11 motor trawlers of the most efficient type working from Hongkong, in addition to a like number stationed in the waters around Hainan. For the deep-sea fishing on which the vessels necessarily have to be of a large size, the biggest having a tonnage of over 400, and a crew of 35. At present, fishing is confined almost wholly to the Gulf of Tongking and in waters adjacent to Kwang Chow Wan, Hainan and Paitoh, whence come most of the garoupa, bream and snapper amongst the commoner kinds of fish eaten by the Chinese population of Hongkong and South China. With their Diesel-engine-driven power, and their freezing equipment, these trawlers are able

American Destroyer Is Target for Spanish Bombs

The U. S. S. Kane, which became a target for bombs from an unidentified Spanish military plane off the coast of Spain. Six death-dealing missiles dropped from the plane failed to score a hit and the plane flew away after the Kane returned fire with its anti-aircraft batteries. The incident was called to attention of Spain's warring factions by Secy. of State Hull.

to beat the local junkies back to port with almost daily consignments of fresh fish. A large packing and storage depot is maintained at Causeway Bay to take constant charge of distribution and delivery.

A modern up-to-date office block, to cost half a million dollars and to include also recreation and living quarters for crews residing in the scheme of development planned by the Kyodo Gyogyo for its South China headquarters based in Hongkong. Negotiations have been started for the acquisition for this purpose of an extensive site on the new Wanchai reclamation.

In addition to Hongkong, it is noted that Manila has been importing most of its fresh fish from the same Japanese concern. The sum total of these extensive operations is such as to give rise to reports of extraordinary profits having been netted, compared with which it is said the earnings of some of the Colony's leading firms would appear modest.

While declining to name a figure, a Company official says that phenomenal profits are not to be expected in times like these, which have reduced the volume of all lines of business. In the case of fish, Hongkong's consumption, he says, has dropped 30 per cent. though retail prices have been kept down as far as possible. He admits, however, that the Com-

WINTER CONCERTS ENTERTAINMENTS AT HELENA MAY

A most interesting and entertaining winter programme has been drawn up for the Helena May Institute by the Social Committee, of which Mrs. N. Mathieson is Chairman.

For several years now, the Helena May has held popular winter concerts. This year, it has been decided to hold one concert a month from November until the end of March.

The best talent of the Colony, both amateur and professional, will be heard at these entertainments, which are worthy of support.

The first of the concerts will be held on Friday, November 13, at 9.30 p.m. Artists who have promised to appear include Doris Blair (Soprano); Helen Leckhart (Contralto); Nura Knis (Pianist); and Dr. L. T. Ride (Baritone).

Prices of admission are to be $1 to non-members and fifty cents to members.

The Social Committee have decided to issue season tickets for this winter's concerts. There will be six concerts in all and the season tickets will cost $5. These may be bought from the Secretary of the Helena May.

GIFT TO MARSHAL HONGKONG CHINESE WILL GIVE FOUR PLANES

That the Hongkong Chinese will present at least four aeroplanes to Marshal Chiang Kai-shek on his coming birthday now seems assured.

It has been announced by the Chinese Chamber of Commerce that so far over $140,000 have been received. The amount does not include the various sums sent direct to Nanking, which include Sir Robert Ho Tung's $100,000 and the Chinese Gold and Silver Exchange's $100,000.

Congratulatory Telegrams

October 31 being the 50th birthday of Marshal Chiang Kai-shek there will be numerous telegrams sent to him in congratulation. The Telegraph Administration of Canton has arranged that a congratulatory telegram containing less than 20 words may be sent for 40 cents (national currency). Such telegrams can be sent before October 31 but will be kept for delivery on that day.

Marshal Chiang has advised that no gifts should be presented to him on the occasion of his birthday, as the present is a hard time for the nation. The public can express their sentiments by contributing to the Aeroplane Fund and by sending congratulatory messages.

pany has had a "fairly prosperous career, all things considered."

The largest whaler owned by the new merger, the 12,000 ton Nisshin Maru, was to have left Japan last week on the start of a voyage to the Antarctic Ocean, where she is to remain for a year. The vessel carries a complete canning and bottling plant, while meat being favoured by the Japanese, in addition to the oil that will have to be extracted from about a thousand whales before her holds are filled to capacity.

In view of the success of the Japanese concern in South China, it is interesting to recall that some years ago there was formed in this Colony a concern named the Hongkong and South China Steam Fisheries Co., Ltd., but that it went into voluntary liquidation in 1915, after a short-lived existence.

THIS MORNING'S POSTBAG

THE article in Thursday's "Telegraph" on "Cricket Follows the Sun" was most interesting, but I am inclined to take issue with the author, Mr. Charles Bray, on the question of "barracking." "Barracking" at Australian cricket matches is no more offensive than the yelling and screeching at English football matches, or the roars of "fans" at American baseball and football games.

Because cricket is regarded in England as being a more sedate and "gentlemanly" sport, crowd excitement is frowned upon. This peculiar form of snobbishness is carried even further in Hongkong, where the spectators are not allowed to raise their voices above a whisper at boxing matches. I recall that a boxing tournament was abandoned in this Colony because the spectators would not keep quiet.

"Barracking" at cricket matches in Australia is rarely offensive, often humorous, and certainly livens an oft-times dull game from the point of view of the spectator. I have seen many test matches in the South, have never yet been to one in which the exuberance of the crowd has in any way interfered with the match, or been directed against any one player. It is directed against all—Australian and English players alike—and it would be cricket to ignore what is only part of cricket to the Antipodeans.

Bad Bus

WHY is it that the No. 3 bus in Kowloon invariably fails to connect with the Star Ferry?

It is extremely exasperating to continuously have to watch a ferry just leaving the pier. The delay means that it takes a Kowloon City resident 25 minutes to reach the city instead of 15 minutes, as would be the case if a connection were made.

Apparently the No. 3 bus is the only regular offender. Cannot something be done about it?

Call For Compassion

THE case of a young married woman who was sentenced to several months' imprisonment this week for stealing a quantity of jewellery and clothing, and who stated that she stole because her husband was out of work, strikes me as indicating the lack of some social service to help people of this type.

It was stated, during the hearing, that the woman's husband, a carpenter, was unable to work, owing to the fact that he was suffering from cancer. He actually displayed the cancerous growth in Court, to prove the statement. Admittedly, the woman had no right to steal, but one cannot help feeling that it is no solution of the plight of this couple to send the woman to gaol.

MR. ANTHONY EDEN's speech in Sheffield, in which he voiced the distant of British people for extreme political doctrines which are being fostered in certain other countries, was most refreshing.

Britain is today the bulwark of constitutional government and of sane democracy. It is, indeed, comforting to feel that there is no possibility of our inheritance of freedom being squandered, or of the nation being disciplined politically.

THE MAN NOBODY WANTS Tries Ten Times To Get Back Home DOOMED TO LIVE AT SEA

Cairo, Oct. 1.
A MAN who has been deprived of his nationality by the Egyptian Government is to-day crossing the Mediterranean for the tenth time, bound for nowhere in particular.

Abdel Rahman Fadl, 30-year-old carpenter, left Egypt at 18, wandered round Europe, spent four years in Russia.

Three months ago, in Athens, he felt homesick, obtained a visa, he was refused permission to land; the authorities had reports that Fadl was a Moscow-trained propagandist.

So Fadl is now a man without a country. Greece will not have him back, and yesterday sent him back to Alexandria for the tenth time. Fadl has paid for two of his passages, but has no more money now. He spends most of the time aboard reading and gazing at the horizon. The vessel's captain has complained to the authorities about him, but they show no sign of moving, and Fadl seems condemned to spend the rest of his days at sea.

PRINCE CONSORT'S DEATH

Queen Victoria wrote a heart-rending letter to the Emperor William I. a few weeks after the death of the Prince Consort.

And I, I hung on him with body and soul, and now I stand alone with many poor children and many cares and become weaker and thinner daily.

But in her grief the Queen did not forget her German policy and wrote: "In spite of this despair, I can assure you that so long as I live I shall exert myself to maintain the best understanding between our countries and to persevere according to the view of my angel."

Oxygen in Flights At 14,000 Feet

Chicago, Oct. 1.

OXYGEN balloons for passengers travelling by air herald the approach of stratosphere flying.

The Douglas sleeper aeroplanes of the American Air Lines, are being equipped with these balloons, which are described as for the aged and infirm but not for the amusement of children.

Government regulations do not permit passenger machines to fly higher than 14,000 ft., but when the weather is bad pilots are allowed to make short flights into higher altitudes. It is at such times that the balloons will be issued to passengers who wish for them.

Many machines are fitted with oxygen tanks in the pilot's cabin, and similar facilities are in the kitchen. The new balloons are 12 in. in diameter. They have a mouthpiece and valve for regulating the flow of oxygen.

Canlender, Ontario, Oct. 16.

The Dionne quintuplets are rapidly becoming Canada's most valuable asset.

Of the £20,000,000 which it is calculated the United States tourists will spend in Ontario this year £5,000,000 is directly drawn here by the quintuplets. Mr. Jack Hambleton, Director of the Ontario Tourist Department, estimates.

"The American who used to go fishing now brings his wife to Canada to see the quintuplets," he states.

CHINESE DECRY MOVIE KISSING OF AMERICANS

New York, Oct. 10.

Americans take oil and machinery to China, but if they could just teach the Chinese to kiss in the American manner it would probably mean millions of dollars in additional revenue for motion picture producers. This, at least, is the thought of Lewis Milestone, who directed Paramount's "The General Died at Dawn."

"While making the picture," Milestone said, "I retained the services of several Chinese scholars. With their advice I thought I might avoid what Chinese audiences always detect as ludicrous anachronisms. We were successful up to a certain point, even managing to compromise on certain customs and practices which are diametrically opposites in the two countries. But when we came to the love-making scenes we reached the parting of the ways."

"My Chinese authorities simply shook their heads every time I would look to them for approval."

Milestone then pointed out that although China's population is four times that of the United States, approximately 60 times more Americans than Chinese go to the movies. The director conceded that the serious economic situation in China naturally has something to do with it, but he insisted that if Hollywood could get China to accept American kissing, film interest in the Orient would rise greatly.

SLIMMING MADE HER LOOK YOUNGER

Here is another case where the trim, slim figure of youth has displaced the coarse, fat outline of middle-age. It is a house-keeper writing. She says:—

"I cannot say what weight I was, but I was very fat—a burden to myself. I have taken three bottles of Kruschen Salts and now I am quite slender. I am 50 turned and people take me for 40. I am more than proud of myself. You can take it from me that every word of this is true. I took a teaspoonful in hot water every morning till I used three bottles. Now I only take half a teaspoonful each morning. I cannot recommend the Kruschen Salts enough, for they are worth their weight in gold."—(Mrs.) A. H.

The formula of Kruschen represents the ingredients of the mineral waters from those far-famed European Spas which have been used by generations of over-stout people to reduce weight. Kruschen Salts combat the cause of fat by assisting the internal organs to perform their functions properly—to throw off each day those waste products and poisons which, if allowed to accumulate, will be converted by the body's chemistry into fatty tissue.

teeth that sparkle and charm

You, too, can have them—if you know this secret about removing film

Brushing with ordinary dentifrices can never give you the gleaming white teeth you envy. Only brushing with an effective film-removing dentifrice can do that. For film is the sticky, gummy coating that forms on teeth, obscures their natural beauty. Even worse, it glues to teeth the germs and acids associated with tooth decay. You must remove that film.

That's why we urge you to use Pepsodent, the special film-removing tooth paste. For Pepsodent contains a cleansing and polishing substance that is unexcelled in removing film from teeth. Yet it contains no grit—nothing to injure tooth enamel. So if you want whiter, brighter teeth remove film the safe, effective way—with Pepsodent Tooth Paste.

KING GEORGE V MEMORIAL FOR HONGKONG OFFICIAL SCHEME.

His Excellency the Governor has been informed from many quarters of a general desire that Hong Kong should possess a worthy Memorial to His late Majesty, King George V.

In the United Kingdom the National Memorial, with royal approval, will take the form of Playing Fields throughout the country with suitable commemorative entrance gates. Members of the fighting Services in this Colony are subscribing to this Home memorial, and any civilians who desire to contribute are reminded that remittances should be addressed to "The King George National Memorial Fund, The Mansion House, London, E.C.4."

At the present time of economic depression it is unlikely that sufficient money could be raised in this Colony for the purchase of large areas for playing fields. The Executive Council has therefore had under most careful consideration the preparation of a plan which, while identical in its main purpose and conception with the Home Scheme, will carry with it an assurance of immediate practical success and of popular acceptance. The scheme which has emerged is that Government should preserve for public parks with children's playgrounds two open spaces, one in Victoria and the other in Kowloon. Both the proposed areas adjoin congested districts, and any possible doubts as to their potential recreative and hygienic value will be speedily dispelled by an evening visit to the existing Southern Playing Ground at Wantai.

The area selected for Victoria is the beautiful garden of the present Government Civil Hospital, which will no longer be required when the Queen Mary Hospital opens next year. The Maternity Block and Medical Officer's quarters can be demolished and there will then be room for three playgrounds and (if funds permit) for a paddling pool, without encroachment on the fine lawn that already exists. The many lovely trees, which luckily escaped mutilation by the recent typhoon, would of course be preserved in any future layout.

In Kowloon there is a sufficiently large unalienated space at the Northern end of Canton Road just before it joins Jordan Road. It contains at present some rocky hummocks but, given funds, these can be easily levelled off or converted into terrace gardens. More would have to be done here than at the Civil Hospital, but there is no reason why an equally useful and pleasant result should not emerge. If, however, this area can be exchanged for one even more suitable the Government will consider such an exchange.

The Government's contribution to the scheme will be the preservation of these areas as open spaces, their preparation and equipment depending upon public subscription. The erection of commemorative arches or gates, as under the Home Scheme, would doubtless meet with general approval but (although tentative sketch-plans are being got out) the local Scheme is not yet tied to any set design. All subscriptions will be handed over to the Urban Council, and with them will lie the responsibility of getting the fullest value for money in the lay-out, equipment and beautification of both areas. It is considered that future maintenance would be a fair charge on urban revenues and voluntary subscriptions will therefore be utilised entirely on initial development.

The Governor earnestly invites subscriptions to this Scheme, which should be paid into the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank, the Chinese Chamber of Commerce or the Tung Wah Hospital. His Excellency is most grateful to these institutions for this service of collection. Cheques should be made payable to "King George V Memorial Fund" and crossed. In launching this appeal the Governor hopes that the Scheme will commend itself as strongly to the general public as it does to his colleagues on the Executive Council and Finance Committee and to himself, and that it will meet with a truly generous response. The receipt of donations will be acknowledged in the newspapers, by kind permission of the Editors.

INVENTOR OF MECCANO IS DEAD

WEALTH FROM A TOY

IDEA BORN WHILE WAITING NEAR GOODS YARD

LITTLE strips of steel, neatly drilled with holes, and miniature nuts and bolts brought a fortune to Frank Hornby.

He was the inventor of Meccano, the building toy known to boys throughout the world.

He died in Liverpool last month, after a serious operation, at the age of 73.

One Christmas Eve, 36 years ago, Mr. Hornby was travelling to Birmingham to spend the holiday with a relative. He wondered how he could amuse the children.

BIRTH OF THE IDEA

As the train stopped opposite a goods yard he caught sight of a small crane.

The little strips of steel came to mind as he contemplated building a miniature crane.

Recalling the incident years later, Mr. Hornby said:

"I sat there dreaming about it. I was drunk with delight when I got out of the train.

"Meccano started in my workshop. I decided on the name because people of every nationality could pronounce it."

Mr. Hornby made the first set of Meccano himself with the little money he possessed. He developed the idea with one assistant.

In spite of its growing popularity, however, Meccano more than once brought him to the edge of bankruptcy.

2,000 WORKERS NOW

To-day, Mr. Hornby's Meccano factory employs 2,000 men and girls, and occupies five acres.

Mr. Hornby, still absorbed in his invention, went to his factory every day as he had done years before.

He also visited his factories in France and America. He crossed the Atlantic 60 times.

He entered Parliament as member for Everton in 1931—but Meccano drew him back and he decided not to seek re-election.

Germany Off Clothes Standard

Berlin, Oct. 1.

Clothes bought by Germans after to-day must, in part, be made of synthetic materials.

A new decree, issued by the Ministry of Trade in accordance with Herr Hitler's plans for self-sufficiency—

Prohibits the manufacture of clothes and other textiles from natural material alone and requires a mixture of synthetic wool or cotton to the extent of from 20 to 30 per cent.

Special inspectors are to be appointed to visit textile factories, tailors' shops and dressmakers' establishments to see that the new law is observed.

A general economic staff has been appointed to give effect to the Chancellor's ideas. It is predicted that before the end of four years Germany will have achieved self-sufficiency in respect of her rubber requirements.

In regard to textiles and metal the prospect of self-sufficiency is held to be less rosy.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT)

QUEEN VICTORIA was

members of the Prussian Royal family, and a great number of these letters have been preserved.

A volume containing the most important of them is shortly to appear, it being announced that

King Edward has given permis-

A selection of them is given this morning in the Deutsche Allgemeine

A letter from Osborne dated

September 14, 1845, thanks King

Frederick William IV. of Prussia for the hospitality which he had shown her and the Prince Consort.

"Dear Germany and its inhabitants," wrote the Queen, "pleased me very much—I am afraid almost too much . . . I did not feel at all foreign."

Queen Victoria's feelings towards her children are described in another letter to the Princess (later Empress) Augusta, who was almost in despair at parting with her daughter, who had just married the heir to the throne of Baden.

ATTITUDE TO CHILDREN

She says frankly that her own relations with her children are quite different.

"I see the children much less,

and even here (Balmoral), where

Albert is often out for almost the whole day. I find no particular pleasure or substitute in the society of the elder children. . . .

It is only exceptional when I feel a confidential talk with them pleasant and easy.

You will not understand this. It is due to various causes. First of all, I am really only a mother and quite happy when Albert is with me.

Secondly, I am accustomed to go on with my work of many sorts alone, and then I grow up quite alone and always accustomed to the society of grown-up their movement along a base line of 186,000,000 miles.

A thousand pictures a year are

LEE WAI-TONG BIDS FAREWELL TO FOOTBALL

Decides To Give Up Game After Brilliant Career

NOT PLAYING SUNDAY

Our Soccer Will Be The Poorer

(By "Veritas")

LEE Wai-tong has made his decision. He is giving up active football after a career unparalleled in China. Hong-kong will receive the news with genuine regret, for it removes from our soccer fields one of the greatest artists the game has known in the Orient.

Lee will not play against the Royal Ulster Rifles on Sunday, and unless he is urgently required, it is very unlikely that his many admirers will see him again in his familiar Alex James shorts.

South China Athletic Association has succeeded in obtaining from him a promise to hold himself in readiness for an emergency, but to all intents and purposes Lee is now lost to the soccer world.

He told me yesterday that he did not anticipate appearing in any of the Chinese representative teams, including the Governor's cup side, and there was no question of his seeking international honours.

AFTER CAREFUL THOUGHT He has made his decision after careful thought. He feels that he should bring an end to his career now as he has definitely reached the stage when retirement from active participation is desirable.

But his interest in football will remain unabated. He will be on the sidelines to give that advice the younger South China players may need, and it is expected that he will now settle down to the task of preparing his text book on football—a venture he has had in mind for some considerable time.

Thus to all intents and purposes Lee played his farewell game in Hongkong last Sunday. His figure will be sadly missed on our football enclosures. Lee has been not only a brilliant player, but a fine sportsman. He has never had any time for questionable tactics and it was something worthy of note when he was pulled up for a breach of the rules. Always are they technical and I can't recollect ever seeing one repeated in the same match.

HIS GREAT TECHNIQUE His technique has not only been the envy of thousands of Chinese (and of other nationalities) but it has been the guiding principle of the present-day Chinese players both here and elsewhere in the Lee Wai-tong, who has announced he is retiring from active participation in football but will hold himself in readiness in case of an emergency.

KOWLOON CHINESE CAPTURE

Canton Navy Full Back

Navy, as well as South China "A" will be making their first league appearance of the season to-morrow. They are pitted against Kowloon Chinese, who have made further changes.

Notable newcomer is Wong Bin-fun at left back. He is the Canton Navy full back and is reputed to be a player of considerable merit.

Another player to be dropped is Yeung Kan-po, his successor at inside right being Lau Chung-sang. Au Ping-ming will again give way to Wong Wing-hong as centre-forward, but the half backs remain unchanged.

It is another first-rate team on paper, and it stands an excellent chance of winning chiefly because the Navy are bound to be somewhat at sea.

Orient. When Lee was at the height of his career his wizardry with the ball, his magnificent body swerves and his famous shot with both feet from almost any angle were known and talked about from Nanking to Sydney.

And although Lee is giving up the game, he is still one of the cleverest forwards this end of the world. His opportunism is a keen as ever, and about the only things about his football which have been impaired (Continued on Page 13.)

RIFLES OR S. CHINA?

VERY IMPORTANT MATCH TO-MORROW

TAM KONG-PAK TO PLAY IN THE FORWARD LINE

LEE KWOK-WAI BEING RESTED

(By "Veritas")

When last Monday I opined that Royal Ulster Rifles, on present form, would be good enough to beat South China "A", I did not know that an opportunity for the proving or otherwise of my contention would arise within a week. But such is the case. To-morrow, on the Sookunpo ground, the Rifles and South China "A" clash in the big match of the week-end.

The encounter is important from several points of view. In the first place it signals the season's league debut of South China "A"; secondly the Ulster Rifles' 100 per cent. record is at stake; and thirdly (though much more important than the other factors) it will give us an opportunity of making some real assessment as to the championship potentialities of the two teams.

Perhaps I am being a little unfair to South China when I say that I see no reason for changing my mind about the probable outcome of this match. Because frankly, my view is not based on what I have seen of the Chinese since their return from Europe, but purely on the assumption that they are playing a similar type of football to last season, in addition I have had the chance of forming a definite opinion about the relative qualities of the Rifles.

WHY THEY SHOULD WIN I can't do much more than to reiterate the view expressed last Monday that I consider the Rifles are good enough to beat South China because they play the right type of game.

It would be idle to pretend that the soldiers have the same deft touches or practice inter-passing with the same amount of accuracy. Neither, as individuals, do they boast quite as much football artistry as players like Fung King-cheung, Tam Kong-pak, Li Tin-sang, Tso Kwai-shing, et al. But they do indulge in direct methods; furthermore they are as hard as nails, have remarkable staying powers, can set and maintain a terrific pace, and have marksmen second to none in local football.

Neither can it be said that South China's hopes have been improved by the absence of Lee Wai-tong from the attack. As Frank Poxon once said, apropos of something else, if it like playing football without the Prince of Denmark.

South China have indicated that they appreciate a serious gap has been left in the attack by the decision to introduce Tam Kong-pak to the forward line. Tam will play inside right to Tso Kwai-shing, with Fung King-cheung at centre-forward. The left wing will be Ip Pak-wa, inside and Tay Qua-ling on the flank.

An important change has also been effected in the half back line. Lee Kwok-wai is being rested and Lau Hing-chol will figure at left half. Lau Mau returns to the rear division in company with Li Tin-sang and Pau Ka-ping will probably figure between the sides.

A good, reliable side we must all admit, whether the players can find their feet immediately is another question.

RIFLES SITTING PAT

As for the Rifles they are naturally sitting pat so far as the composition of the team goes. I analysed the side pretty thoroughly last week and there is no call for reiteration.

I regard it as the finest combination outside of any of the Chinese teams in the Colony, and I am prepared to believe them to be superior to any first division outfit. Hartigan's lost form in the Army trial during the week must not be taken too seriously. In any case it is offset by the knowledge that Campbell played brilliantly at centre-half in the same match.

The Rifles have, at least theoretically, one or two factors in their favour for to-morrow. They are playing at Sookunpo, a ground which has never really suited the Chinese (and they know it); they have also played together this season on three or four occasions, whereas this will be South China's first match as a team for some considerable time. Furthermore—the Rifles will take the field chock full of confidence, the outcome of their recent performances.

Another great game is promised and it will be surprising if it falls below anticipated standard. As for the crowd, it is likely to be a record for the ground.

Fowler, Club right winger, who is crooked and cannot play this afternoon.

FOWLER AND FLEMING

ABSENT FROM THE CLUB TEAM

AGAINST SOUTH CHINA "B"

Club will take the field this afternoon against South China "B" without Fowler and Fleming, their right wing. Both are resting slight injuries. Fowler has a torn muscle and Fleming a bruised ankle. Neither injury is serious and their absence from the side is more precautionary than anything else.

This means that Skinner will return to the half back line to permit Brown to move to inside right, while Stone, Club second string centre-forward will operate on the right wing.

Otherwise the team remains unchanged, but Club may find themselves pretty hard pressed to win, as the Chinese are a nippy bunch of players, and are beginning to settle down.

Further Police Experiments

MOSS LEADS ATTACK

Police have gone in for several more alterations for their engagement with East Lancshires to-morrow.

Britain has been brought back into the team to partner Blackburn at left back, and although the half backline is as usual, with Brooks in the pivotal berth, there are several notable experiments in the attack.

Tommy Pike makes his first appearance of the season on the right wing, and has Johnson for a partner. Moss, erstwhile left winger, is being attempted at centre-forward, while Cough will play on his left, with Green on the wing.

Possibly this constant reshuffling of the Police team is open to criticism, yet it must be confessed that none of the combinations has yet proved itself to be ideal, and the selectors cannot be blamed for continuing their search. After all the season is yet young, and Police have nothing to lose by their experiments at this stage.

Even so I cannot see them beating East Lancshires, or even avoiding defeat if the soldiers continue as they have started the season.

CASTILHO A DOUBTFUL STARTER

St. Joseph's Expect Team Changes

I hear that it is unlikely Castilho, right winger, will be able to play for St. Joseph's against Eastern this afternoon.

In this event, A. M. Omar will be brought into the team, but there will be a general reshuffling. Dolgado will move back to the intermediate line to allow O. M. Omar to take over the right wing position. Elms also returns to the side in his usual left half berth.

Tennis Entrance Fees Are Much Too High

LADY PLAYERS HAVE REAL COMPLAINT

NO little consternation has been created by the announcement that each competitor in the ladies' open singles and doubles tennis championships of the Colony must pay $5 entrance fee per event. The feelings of quite a large body of opinion were expressed in a letter which appeared in these columns during the week in which the correspondent protested vigorously against such an imposition. There certainly appears to be good grounds for complaint, when one makes the following comparisons. It costs a lady player $10 to participate in the Colony singles and doubles championship; it costs the men $6 for similar events; it costs only $2.50 per pair in the mixed doubles championship. The only argument to support such an invidious state of affairs is that there are insufficient entries in the ladies' championships to permit of lower entrance fees. The remedy appears to be simple. Reduce the fees and make the running of the championships dependent upon a minimum number of entries.

Suggested Remedy

THE organisers would do well to bear in mind that one of the most important aims of the Colony championships is to encourage new participants, especially the younger players. I know for a fact that the chance of playing but two matches is keeping several young players from entering the tournaments this year. Presumably it is impossible for the championships to be run under a minimum income of $50 for each event. That presumption is based on the fact that ten players completed last year when entrance fees amounted to that sum. It stands to reason that ten competitors cannot be regarded as representative of the playing talent in this Colony, and although there may be good grounds for believing that number of players do not enter because they feel they are not up to the high entrance fees contribute to the position. Decidedly there is room for adjustment, and I suggest the right method would be to reduce the entrance fees to $3 and to make the staging of the championships dependent on a minimum number of entries, such as 20. I am sure, from what I have been told, the response would justify such a step. In any case a Colony championship of less than 20 participants is nothing but a farce. It is to be hoped that the organisers, and more especially the Lawn Tennis Association, under whose auspices the championships are conducted, will take notice of the feelings of a large number of lady tennis players.

Anderson For K.C.C.

DONALD Anderson, former all-round University sportsman, arrives back in the Colony on November 6. In addition to splendid academic honours, he brings with him a number of cups and spoons for successes in golf tournaments, and an enhanced reputation as a cricketer. He is arriving back just at the right moment. The cricket season will be under way, and I understand that the Kowloon Cricket Club are to benefit by his services. Which is a decidedly lucky break for the league champions, who are sadly in need of a player of the Donald Anderson calibre. Anderson, indisputably one of the most brilliant cricketers to be produced at the Hongkong University, had the distinction of leading the Varsity team when they won the league championship five years ago. He is an ideal all-rounder, and will be a great asset to the K.C.C. Our leading lights in golf will also have to look to their laurels accordingly to reports. Anderson apparently has developed the game to something beyond the average, and will possibly be an important contestant for the Colony championship.

Army Out For Cup

ARMY are doing everything possible to get together a team capable of winning the Lai Wah Cup. They staged a trial match this week, and have arranged for another next Tuesday. This is the sort of enthusiasm and preparation which produces successful results, and it would not be at all surprising if the Army realised the task this season. Judging from the composition of the teams on Tuesday, it appears to be a Probables V. Possibles game, although the teams are officially designated as "Reds" and "Whites". The "Reds" appear to be a probable eleven, being as follows: Rowlands; Swain and Steele; Hurst, Campbell and Evans; Erwin, Sandford, Ferguson, Talbot and Harigan. The "Whites" are: Sellick; Keating and Stevens; Moore, Grindley, and Taylor; Smith, Dennis, Howlett, Duffield and Riddings. The final Lai Wah Cup team will be chosen after this match. ### E. STRANGE IS IN LAI WAH CUP XI

PARKER RESERVE LEFT HALF

Ernest Strange, and not Parker, has been selected as left half for the Civilian Lai Wah Cup team.

The error was made in our report yesterday, though the team was received as published. Parker is reserve left half.

Club have therefore six players in the Civilian team which will oppose the Navy on October 25. In addition to Strange, there is Roger in goal, Fowler, Fleming, Wilson and Blackford among the forwards.

A. V. GOSANO RETURNS

Stronger Recreio XI Indicated

A. V. Gosano will play for Club de Recreio against Chinese Athletic to-day, but Bernie is still unavailable.

There is a change in goal, R. Xavier will be called upon, coming in for Marques. Actually Xavier will be called upon to play two matches in the one afternoon. He is due to turn out for the third division team earlier on.

There are no other changes of note, except that Beltrao is restored to centre-half, with D. F. Aquino at inside right.

With the defence strengthened by A. V. Gosano, I rather suspect Recreio will win this match. Athletic have shown but mediocre form to date.

HEAVY DEFEAT FOR AUSTIN

BY SCHROEDER OF
SWEDEN
BOROTRA WINS

London, Oct. 16. An extraordinary collapse on the part of H. W. ("Bunny") Austin, the famous English Davis Cup player, featured to-day's semi-final matches of the Queen's Club national hard-court championship.

Austin lost to Karl Schroeder, the young Swedish expert in straight sets of 6-2, 6-1, 6-1, the most decisive beating he has suffered since he lost to Ellsworth Vines in the Wimbledon Championship final in 1932. Jean Borotra of France won the other semi-final, overcoming Max Klinger, Swiss Davis Cupper after a four set match, the scores reading 2-6, 6-1, 6-6, 6-4.—Reuter.

with the passing of the years, are his speed and his stamina.

It is extremely doubtful whether South China "A" attack will be so thrustful, effective and match-winning without Lee Wai-tong. He has always succeeded in inspiring the other players to raise their game, and without this inspiration one is inclined to doubt whether the team will be quite so formidable as of yore.

In bringing to a close a magnificent career, Lee Wai-tong can look back with satisfaction on the fact that his sportsmanship, ethics both on and off the field were as fine as his prowess. In short, a thorough sportsman.

MIXED DOUBLES CHAMPIONSHIP

Thirteen Entries

Thirteen pairs have entered for the lawn tennis open mixed doubles championship of the Colony, the draw for which was held at the Chinese Recreation Club last evening.

Several prominent names do not figure in the entries this year, such as Miss R. Hancock, Mrs. Kyall, L. Goldman and a few others. The pairs which have entered, however, all seem to be equally matched, and the competition should be interesting.

The result of the draw is as follows:

In the upper half of the bracket, G. C. Burnett and Miss O. Dalziel play G. E. Clarke and Mrs. McCaw; F. Grose and Miss R. Perry meet Captain J. D. Milne and Mrs. J. Ashton; W. C. Hung and Mrs. N. Wilson meet S. A. Kurnjahn and Miss R. Rumjahn. G. Bodiker and Mrs. Holmes have drawn a bye, and will meet the winners of the match between Hung and Mrs. Wilson and Rumjahn and Miss Rumjahn, in the second round.

In the lower half of the bracket, E. C. Fletcher and partner meet Captain W. J. R. Cragg and Mrs. J. P. Whitman. The winners of this match will meet S. A. Gray and Miss A. Mackenzie, who have drawn a bye. M. W. Lo and Mrs. E. Litton play J. F. Loya and Mrs. Paterson, and the winners meet H. D. Rumjahn and Mrs. Chiu Chun-chiu (bye) in the second round.

LADIES' HOCKEY

Problem Of Umpires
In Tournament
ONE NEW TEAM

The problem of obtaining the services of two efficient umpires for each League match was discussed yesterday at the annual meeting of the Hongkong Ladies' Hockey Association, at the Gloucester Hotel.

Mr. J. Dalziel, Vice-President, presided at the meeting, which was attended by representatives of all the clubs affiliated to the Association.

It was pointed out that in many of the tournament matches last year they had to commandeer spectators to umpire on account of the fact that some of those had promised to officiate had failed to appear. It was decided to recommend the Incoming Committee to deal with the matter.

The annual report stated in part: During the year, a Junior League was formed, which was the means of stimulating interest in ladies' hockey. Mr. A. O. Brown very kindly donated a cup to be played for annually on the same lines as the competition for the Caer Clark Cup. Five teams entered this League, and the Hongkong Ladies were successful in winning the Cup.

The Central British Association won the Caer Clark Cup, thus breaking the long sequence of wins by the Hongkong Ladies, who won the Southern Cup after a replay against the "Y" Ladies.

The "Y" Ladies retained the Pearce Cup, and the Central British School won the cup presented by Miss H. M. Knill in the Seven-a-Side Tournament.

INTERPORT SUCCESS
Hongkong sent a team to Shanghai during Chinese New Year, and won the White Shield for the second time, defeating the Shanghai side by 1-0. Two other matches were played—against the American School and the Rest of Shanghai—and the Colony was victorious on each occasion.

Owing to various reasons the Champions v. Rest match in the Caer Clark Cup League was cancelled. The Interport team, however, played the Champions, and a Rest team played the Junior Champions, Mrs. Pearce presenting the cups to the winners at the conclusion.

The following officers were elected for the year:

President.—Mrs. T. E. Pearce.
Vice-President.—Miss E. Gray.
Hon. Secretary and Treasurer.—Mrs. P. M. Harrop.
Assist. Hon. Secretary.—Miss J. Smalley.
Committee.—Miss E. F. Best, Miss I. Woolley, Mrs. H. Prophet, Miss M. McCaw, Miss S. Dalziel, Miss M. Churn, Miss J. Dalziel, Mrs. J. Lunson, Miss M. Roze, Miss O. Botelho, Miss P. Glavin, Miss E. Wong, Miss A. Fowler, Miss O. Dalziel and Mrs. K. Campbell.

Tilden, Vines Bookings Are Available

As a result of Perry's emphatic and precise announcement, concerning his future, any more statements by people about his turning professional within ten days or twenty days, or more, or less, can be taken with a pinch of salt and regarded purely as a cheap form of publicity. Perry means to play again in the Davis Cup if he is wanted. After that we may expect anything. It is true many of his friends have predicted that he will finally settle down in America with his wife Helen Vinson, and probably take out naturalisation papers. This hints that he has his eyes on Hollywood, though it may be anything. There is one statement of his, however, which is a bit difficult to interpret. Perry says he is through with playing tennis for fun. I wonder if by "fun" he includes exhibition matches? If so, it is sad news for us who are expecting the young man to come here next Spring. But possibly the statement is pure rhetoric, and that when he made it he was looking right ahead to the time when he gives up amateur competitive tennis. We sincerely hope so, for Hongkong would be bitterly disappointed if Perry decided that he wouldn't play here because it was merely "fun".

It was decided to hold a bridge and mah jong drive in aid of interport funds on November 6 at 3.15 pm. at the Gloucester Hotel. The charge will be $1 including tea.

The Caer Clark Cup will commence on November 7, but the matches have not been decided as the fixture list is not yet ready.

The Seven-a-Side Tournament will commence on November 9. It was announced that the only new team in the League was the Royal Ulster Rifles ladies.

Cool Stars Discovered In Neighbourhood of Sun; Gauge Put on Milky Way

Professor Hietzer In Harvard Tercentenary Lecture
Tells Of Fading Luminaries Photographed
On Infra-Red Plates

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 3.

Stars so cool they have a temperature scarcely warmer than a red-hot horseshoe in the tongs of a blacksmith, were reported to-day before the first assembly of the American Astronomical society, meeting as part of Harvard's Tercentenary conference.

These are dying stars, according to Dr. C. W. Hietzer of Yerkes Observatory, stars that in relation to most of the flaming celestial orbs, are completely cold. Their presence was discovered only through the use of powerful telescopes, combined with the use of very fast infra-red photographic plates. Furthermore, they are comparatively close to our solar system, floating through space not far from the sun.

DOWN TO 1,000 DEGREES

Dr. Hietzer told assembled scientists he gave his plates exposures varying from a few minutes to several hours, in order to bring out these objects. Previously, no star with a temperature less than 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit was known, but the indications are that several of these newly disclosed bodies have surface temperatures of 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit or less.

This opens a new field for exploration in astronomy which gives promise of great possibilities. Dr. Hietzer occupies the same position in his field as the botanist who habitually travels to distant corners of the globe in search of new plants and one day suddenly discovers things right in his own back yard he didn't know were there.

OBSERVING NEAR HOME

He plans now an intensive search of the heavens immediately surrounding the sun for new low temperature stars. He hopes to find them with surface temperatures even lower than present indications—and if an entirely black object should turn up, a celestial body visible only through reflected starlight and as cold as our planet—it need scarcely be pointed out that astronomical history will truly be made.

Among other papers presented by astronomers of the McCormick Observatory at the University of Virginia were several estimates on the motions and temperatures of faint stars. Their work led to new estimates on the effective thickness of our galactic system, since they have obtained average distances for groups of stars that are far from the plane of our Milky Way galaxy.

HOW THICK THE MILKY WAY

the thickness of the milky way system for giant and dwarf stars separately. Their results regarding the thickness of the system of the giants agrees with earlier predictions, but it is found that the system of the dwarfs is much thinner than had heretofore been expected.

Recent work by Shapley and others have led to the discovery of a great many very luminous objects belonging to our Milky Way system, but at large distances from the central plane. The result of the Virginia astronomers does not contradict this work in the least, but it suggests that some of the stars that are intrinsically faint stick pretty close to the Milky Way plane.

UNIVERSAL REASON

In a lecture last evening, Prof. Etienne Gilson of the University of Paris stressed the need for keeping universities free from political dictation regarding the curriculum. Mental slavery, he told the center, is the worst form of slavery known.

"Reason and truth," he stated "cannot be limited by national or racial lines, if they are to be effective. They must be universal, and the universities must lead the fight to make them so if they are to survive."

ON THE RADIO

The complete proceedings of this congress of scientists and scholars are broadcast by the shortwave station WIXAL, the World Wide Broadcasting foundation. Special wires have been run from the studios in the University Club, Boston, direct to Harvard lecture halls.

Some 25 broadcasts are being made in all on a frequency of 11.70 megacycles during the daytime and 8.04 megacycles at night. Among men to be heard this week and next are Albert Einstein, Sir Arthur Eddington, John Dewey, Charles G. Jung, Robert A. Millikan, Arthur H. Compton, A. Lawrence Lowell, Henry Osborn Taylor and Frank B. Jewett.

WIXAL, broadcasting with 10,000 watts power, may be heard on any standard all-wave radio set. Under normal conditions the broadcasts reach most North American regions, Europe and North Africa.

Men and Things Abroad—by W. N. EWER

BUFFER STATES

—with Two Powers

"OFF THE RAILS"

ALL Eastern European politics to-day are dominated by two big facts—Germany and Russia.

The two big local centres of force are in Berlin and Moscow. London and Paris are powerful but distant; and in politics, as in physics, there is a sort of law of inverse squares.

From the Arctic Ocean to the Mediterranean, from Finland, that is, to Yugoslavia and Greece, runs a chain of States caught, as it were, in the field of force between these two violent opposing centres.

More and more their Government are concerned with the possibility of being involved in a Russo-German conflict. That possibility determines all their policy.

Disentanglement

AND more and more they are tending to draw away from both, to think that the best chance of safety lies in enmeshing themselves with neither.

Czechoslovakia, desperately afraid of Germany, holds to her new Soviet pact; but her little Entente partners draw back.

Finland, afraid of Russia, keeps on close terms with Germany; but shows signs of not wanting to commit herself too far.

Poland has for nearly three years been balancing carefully, avoiding quarrels with either neighbour, equally avoiding putting herself under the protection of either.

"We will not have the Bolsheviks coming into Poland to fight us against the Russians, or the Red Army coming into Poland to protect us against the Germans. We should never get them out again."

That is the Polish thesis. It explains why she will sign no treaty of mutual assistance either with Berlin or Moscow. And it explains why she is remaking her alliance with France—an ally from whom she has nothing to fear.

"Tutu's" Fall

NOW Rumania is taking the same line. That is the real meaning of Titulescu's fall from power.

Intrigue, of course, and internal politics, played a big part in ousting him. But behind it all was the belief that "Tutu's" policy was leading Rumania into a dangerous reliance on Russia.

The new course in Rumanian policy is symptomatic of a tendency which is one centre of force—

all over East Europe; and so well worth serious consideration.

Three Dangers

TITULESCU was Take Jonescu's pupil and political heir. And his policy followed Jonescu's line.

Rumania after the war had three dangers to think about:

Soviet Russia on the East, Hungary on the West, Bulgaria on the South.

From all three Rumania had taken territory—Bessarabia from Russia, Transylvania from Hungary, the Dobruja from Bulgaria.

Russia had not (and has not yet) recognised the annexation of Bessarabia. The other two had signed peace treaties under compulsion, but still maintained their claim to the "lost provinces."

So against these three dangers Rumania built up a triple system of alliances.

Safeguards

As a safeguard against attack by Russia, she secured the alliance of Poland and of France.

Against Hungary, the Little Entente was formed, with France as the "big brother" in the pact.

Against Bulgaria the Balkan Entente was formed.

It seemed a well constructed system, excellently suited to Rumania's needs.

In return, Rumania was very willing to be ranked among France's diplomatic allies. And thanks to Titulescu's brilliant abilities, she became a prominent factor at Geneva.

Trouble

WHEN, largely because of Polish mediation, diplomatic and commercial relations were resumed with the Soviet Union, and there was a sort of tacit agreement that Bessarabia should be quietly forgotten, at any rate for the time being, "Tutu's" success seemed complete.

And then the trouble began. The Franco-Soviet pact started doubts whether France could any longer be counted on to back Rumania against Russia in the event of trouble; for each would be her ally.

The idea grew that France intended to leave Eastern Europe to Russia and to Rumanian capitalism that was rather a terrifying thought.

Rumour and Denial

THEN came the Czech-Soviet pact, binding Russia in a certain case to aid Czechoslovakia against Germany, and the obvious question, by what route was aid to be sent?

Rumour after rumour had it that Titulescu had promised that Russia should, if the case arose, be allowed to pass across Rumania; that the railway was to be doubled and roads built to facilitate their passage.

That, said his enemies, would mean letting the Russians into Bessarabia; and once in they would never go out.

That, said his enemies, means dragging us into a Russo-German war, in which we should be losers any way.

Titulescu denied again and again that he had made any agreement about Russian troops. He declared that he was anxious for good relations both with Germany and with Russia.

But his enemies had their chance and pressed home their advantage. His protestations came too late.

Of course, German propaganda and German intrigue have played their part. They have played upon fears about Bessarabia.

They are hoping to swing Rumania into the German orbit, to get her as an ally against Russia.

But his enemies had their chance and pressed home their advantage. His protestations came too late.

The whole trend is to keep clear, not to be dragged into hostility to Germany, not to be dragged into hostility to Russia—because both are too near, too powerful, too dangerous. And at the same time to keep the French alliances, to have France as protector.

Seeking Safety

IT is a new policy, very similar to Poland's policy; and the reasons are the same. It is part of the tendency, visible among nearly all the small powers, to seek safety in neutrality as between the great powers.

If "Tutu" adapts himself to this new line, he will be back very soon. But not, I think, otherwise.

His going, in fact, is not just the resignation of a man who has played a great part in post-war European politics; nor is it just the result of intrigues and "politics."

It is one of the most important symptoms of one of the most important developments which is the direct result of the re-emergence of Germany and Russia as powers of the first rank, of the ending of the days when the Allies were the one big power-factor in Europe.

Anything But Dry

"DOCUMENTS" is a word which always suggests Carlyle's favourite word of abuse for rival historians—"Dry-as-dust."

ments on International Affairs," just published for Clarendon House by the Oxford University Press (16s.) is anything but dry-as-dust.

It is the real authentic record of a year in which international affairs have been so engrossing and so exciting as to make it hard to interest anybody in anything else in politics.

Here are the records themselves of the Laval-Mussolini understanding in January, 1935, of the Stresa Conference in April, where Britain, France and Italy (1) promised to collaborate in "the collective maintenance of peace within the framework of the League," of the German denunciation of the military clauses and all that followed.

Here are the documents of the Eden tour, of the Franco-Soviet pact, of the Anglo-German naval agreement—and lots more.

I wish more of the people who talk so much about all these things would stop a bit and study the documents.

"Locarno"

(Hodge and Co., 10s. 6d.), prepared by Dr. Berber, of the German Academy of Science, is also a collection of documents; but for a special purpose—the justification of Germany's reoccupation of the Rhine-land.

So it must be read with the warning that the selection is purposeful. But all the same, the documents are authentic enough.

They begin with Foch's memorandum of January, 1919, urging the permanent military occupation of the Rhine-land by the Allies; they end with the "British questionnaire" of May, 1936.

They include, for example, the German-Soviet treaty of neutrality, which was signed in 1926, and indefinitely reserved by a protocol ratified by Hitler Government in 1933. How many people who talk so pontifically about German-Soviet problems even remember that such a treaty exists?

ROUND ABOUT by The Showman

IT was one of those afternoons. I had escaped from the problems of the world. I was dreamy-like—you know, Doris—sitting in a deck-chair and looking up at the sunlight through trees.

When the chair collapsed something stuck me and, while I was adjusting that slide-thing at the back, I thought that I might well have been looking at the identical sunlight I saw as a boy; that is, if there is anything in Cambronne's theory of the Resilience of Light.

Cambronne holds that the sun's rays bounce back from the earth just as Mr. C. B. Shaw does from the present, and return just as regularly as he does from the past.

Then, when the chair collapsed again I dismissed the whole affair as an idle fancy, and left it to adjust itself.

Rule Britannia!

THERE cannot be much wrong with the nation so long as we continue our dignified, first-night demonstrations of affection for distinguished actors and actresses.

Nothing hysterical, you understand, nothing unbecoming; just the good old British custom of lying down in the roadway and forming a human carpet across which the actors and actresses may walk into the theatre.

No foolish noises, no silly applause; just the active restrained, British screaming as the Distinguished Ones walk over us—and occasional snuffling sounds as, lovingly, we bite the heels of the shoes for precious souvenirs.

Weather Wisdom

AUTUMN is here. Winter is round the corner. Granddad is bestirring himself to remember the weather as it used to be when he was a boy.

In other words, it is time for some of those ample Weather Saws, such as our forefathers loved and trusted. Here is a new one—

When today's in 't' hole
Thunder will roll.
And, as if that were not enough—
When winds blow,
And clouds gyther,
'Tis rain or snow,
Or maybe neither.
Blame me, if they fall you.

Football Wives

THE plight of Herr Karl Lutz, of Vienna, is interesting. His wife is an ardent football player, and—he asserts—leaves him to look after the home and the child. So he is trying to divorce her.

There were the beginnings of a similar case in Budapest, but the husband took heroic measures. He borrowed an old cannon-ball from the arsenal; painted it like a football; and, one evening, after he had washed up and bedded the child, suggested to his wife that he should give her some heading practice. She agreed; so, taking good aim, he threw the "ball."

Half an hour later she opened her eyes and said, "Did you do that, Ernst?"

"Yes, little dove."

"Ah, well, you have made me feel different."

And they lived happily ever after.

THE TRIAL

The courtroom is packed to the doors and the stairs and corridors jammed with disappointed spectators. The trial of Philippe Marlin is on.

On the witness stand is Madame President of the S. P. P. M. who converts her testimony into an impassioned plea for the right of young ladies to attend the cinema without being kissed.

"In the face of this testimony," she concludes, "who can doubt that this ordinarily despicable standard gully of one of the most atrocious crimes in the annals of French criminology?"

There are mingled cheers and hisses from the audience. Philippe takes the stand. His handsome appearance makes a considerable impression on the spectators, particularly on the women.

"Defendant," says the Judge sternly, "have you ever been sentenced before for a similar . . . er . . ."

"Well, Your Excellency, I have kissed a few times in my life but I have never been sent to jail for it."

General laughter and some applause! Even Monique is amused, and tries to hide a smile.

The Judge raps his gavel sharply. "Very well. Now in this instance, how did the plaintiff react?"

NO TIME FOR RADICALS

HOARE FAVOURS OLD DEMOCRACY

London, Oct. 16. "We in Great Britain need none of these foreign importations," declared Sir Samuel Hoare, First Lord of the Admiralty, referring to Communism and Fascism at a meeting of the Junior Imperial League to-day.

Neither Communism nor Fascism had any roots in British soil, he continued. "We shall ignore them," he said.

"We are determined to show that our ancient democracy can govern, and we are not prepared to submit and let foreign-inspired minorities assume the symbols of the powers of Government," Sir Samuel asserted.—Reuter Special.

COLONY'S BALANCE INCREASED

MORE REVENUE COMING IN

Financial returns just issued show that the Colony's credit balance at the end of July was $12,450,288, against $12,830,020 at the end of June.

Revenue during July totalled $3,028,592, against $2,952,199 in the corresponding month last year, whilst for the first seven months of the year the total was $17,428,381, against $17,281,037 in the corresponding period of 1935.

Expenditure during July was $3,406,120, against $3,130,262 in July, 1935, whilst for the seven months it totalled $17,356,761, against $16,397,933 last year.

Giving up her home, Mme. Albanesi lived alone in hotels near London for some years, continuing her writing. In 1929, however, she went to India to visit her other daughter, who had married an officer there and a year later on the young couple announcing that they would spend a long holiday in England, she set up a home again.

In 1928 she published a biography of "Meggie." Among her many other works were "Peter, a Parusie," "Love and Louisa," "Drusilla's Point of View," "One of the Crowd," "When Michael Came to Town," "Diana Falls in Love," "Sally in Her Alley," "The Moon Through Glass" and "White Flame."

Even in her old age she used to produce an average of two novels a year.
